"Pass Obtainers":
The Nouveau Riche

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Soon after the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese hostilities in Shanghai last year, various Governments generously decided to assist in the evacuation of a large number of their subjects and to grant them such other reliefs as were possible at that time.

Substantial sums of money were allotted to the refugees, who therefore found it possible to live in comparative safety outside the war zones, but the financial assistance rendered by the Governments concerned to their subjects in need has not so far been made known to the general public.

In view of this, lovers of justice and fair play have been unable to correct certain statements pointing to abuses, discriminations and the like, it being well-known that complaints have been made quite frequently by dissatisfied refugees here and there. Whether these complaints have been justified, or not, remains in many instances to be proved. Yet, there cannot be any doubt that the local abnormal situation has given rise to hardships and sufferings on the one hand, and to abuses on the other.

This undeclared war between Japan and China has deprived thousands of their worldly belongings, subjecting them to most unpleasant experiences, but it has also been a blessing to some fortunate creatures.

The losses of many have provided a source of income to unscrupulous "pass obtainers," whose activities have been nothing short of scandalous, and nobody ignores that owners of cargo in Hongkew and the Eastern District (Wayside, Yangtszepoo, etc.) have had to pay many thousands of dollars to protect their property or to have it removed. Making good use of certain facilities granted them by their Japanese friends, these "pass obtainers" have taken advantage of their privileged position to build up with the blood of others substantial bank accounts. Some of them were obscure figures prior to the hostilities, but they are now frequenters of clubs and go about town in their own motor cars. And nobody seems to care a straw about their activities. Money is always something which brings with it "respectability" and what not, except to those who do not make enough of it, and this seems to show that our world, morally speaking, is not what it should be. People go to goal for stealing a button, but those who extort thousands by means of scandalous methods of business are received in the best society and nothing happens to them.

The owners of property in the Japanese-controlled areas have been foolish enough in agreeing to the sky-high charges of the "pass obtainers," as, in my opinion, which is shared by many others, their requirements would have eventually been fulfilled at very much lower fees.

The true story of the war will one day be written by some outspoken critic, and it will then be seen (to the amazement of the world) how badly Shanghai has fared in the matter of protection of cargo and household goods left in the war zones.

Huge sums of money (the fruit, one may say, of many years' toil) have been paid to "pass obtainers," cargo removers and so-called ship-owners in the last few months, and the whole thing is so immoral, that one is surprised at the indifference of the victims. Why do not they come forward and expose the ones who have treated them so badly? What are they afraid of?

To add to the immorality of the situation, it is known that the new magnates are misusing their easy earnings; hardly any part of it goes to refugee or other charitable work. Most of the money (and devilish money it is) is being spent in gambling, dancing, prostitution and similar evils.

This undeclared war between Japan and China, like other wars, has revealed conditions which are a disgrace to the human race. But I am deviating from my principal subject, as the purpose of my writing you today, Sir, is chiefly to suggest that accounts be published in the local press of all monies allotted to refugee work by the various Governments, who decided to make liberal contributions, and no one will be more pleased than the refugees themselves to see such accounts published.

A detailed statement, duly audited and certified as correct, of all expenses would be most interesting and instructive.

N. G. T.

Charity Lottery:
Misconception Explained

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—I have to thank you for your courtesy in publishing an article in your today's issue on our lottery.

May I, however, be permitted to say that the reference to the six per cent. from sale of tickets being utilized for printing, office and other necessary expenses, unless elaborated, may lead to a possible misconception of our aims to raise as much funds as possible, for refugee relief.

We are permitted to an extent of 6 per cent. for expenses in connection with office expenses and printing of tickets but any surplus from the six per cent., after all expenditures have been met, will also go to the fund for refugee relief. As estimated expenses will surely be less than 6 per cent. of the receipts even on a minimum sale of 25,000 numbers, there should always be a useful surplus from this source. Even when the first month's expenses, which covers extra expenditures connected with the formation of a company, are paid, there will probably be a surplus, even if the sales do not exceed the guaranteed minimum of 25,000 numbers.

Should the sale of tickets exceed the guaranteed minimum number, this surplus will be correspondingly increased and the refugees and other civilian victims of the war will benefit by an additional substantial sum.

Father Jacquinot has kindly accepted a seat, not on the Board of Directors, but on the Distribution Committee, which is empowered to distribute to the various Charitable Organizations the profits from the lottery.

In the last paragraph of your article it was stated the first prize will total $100,000 and the second $15,000. If, as we hope, the sales reach the total number of 50,000 tickets which have been printed, the prizes will total the sum given above, but if the sales do not reach the total number of 50,000 tickets, there will be a proportionate reduction of the amounts in the prizes.

May we encroach further upon your courtesy by asking you to publish in full the following prize distribution plan:

The Prize Distribution plan based on a total sale of 50,000 numbers at Ch. $10.—each is as follows:—

	Prize			Per Cent.
1	1st	$160,000	$160,000	40
1	2nd	15,000	15,000	6
1	3rd	8,000	8,000	3.2
4	4th	2,000	8,000	3.2
10	5th	500	5,000	2
25	6th	200	5,000	2
60	7th	50	3,000	1.2
160	8th	30	3,670	1.2
5,000	9th A.	10	50,000	20
5,000	9th B.	10	50,000	20
2 Primary Approximation Prizes		1,000	2,000	0.8
2 Secondary Approximation Prizes		500	1,000	0.4
10,206			$250,000	100

Should the sales not reach the total number of 50,000 tickets there will be proportionate reduction of the number of the 9th Prize A and 9th Prize B, (two different terminals separately drawn) and of the amounts of all other prizes.

In any case the total amount reserved for prizes will not be less than $125,000 based on a minimum sale of 25,000 tickets and the minimum amount of the first prize will be $50,000.

The payment of the prizes will be guaranteed by deposits with the Banque de L'Indochine of amounts corresponding with the value of tickets offered for sale.

All prizes uncollected after six months from the date of the drawing will be forfeited and the amounts of all such uncollected prizes will go to the benefit of the refugees.

Do You Remember Paris?
And Who Would Not?

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Is there no affinity between caricature and verse, though the brush be wielded by a past-master in the art and the quill be driven by modest scribblers like us? And if "Sapajou" may rejoice in the plenitude of symbolical expansion, may we not, invita Minerva, at least indulge in an endeavour to extemporise?

We remember, we remember
Days of glory in 'Paree"
Janu...a...ry to December,
When we both were young and free.
Is this not a stale beginning:
Some have written thus before?
But your ear we're bent on winning
With a bit of ancient lore.
Who would think—could they but see us—
Handsome ever we had been,
Or imagine we were pearless
On the stage or on the green.
Yet no scribe could hold a candle
To us then in doughty deed,
And such things as none could handle
We put through with welcome speed.
O! The blissful days in clover
When we lived in "Gay Paree."
When the midinettes did hover
O'er boulevard and brasserie!
Days of effortless achievement
When the world was all ablaze.
And no set-back nor bereavement
Could our gumption then embase.
"Jacques and Gil" they called us sweetly,
How these names would Us enthral,
And they acted so discreetly
When they answered just a call.
How we toiled in shirt-and-collar,
Bumptious never with conceit,
Cared not for centime nor dollar
If asleep or on our feet.
How we climbed alone, benighted,
Mont Parnasse with paraphrase,
Slipping oft, but not affrighted,
Till a verset we could raise!
Yet we revelled in the twilight,
Heard the "Angelus" or prayer
Murmured just at seven or midnight
In the soft Parisian air.
Spoke we not in coyest inuiden
Blushing like a peach in bloom,
With no rouge nor lip-stick laden,
Peeping through her curtained room?
Did we not, our hopes full-swinging
Heavenward, make a grim resolve
With the church-bells solemn ringing
To unite and ne'er dissolve.
But with break of day we started
On our grudgery, soon bestirred,
Free as ever, single-hearted
Love and dreams were so absurd!
O! The happy days in number
King or Prince may see again.
But we bachelors who slumber,
Build our castles....now in Spain!

Palestine:
An Attempt at Analogy

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Allow me, please, through the medium of your journal to pay tribute to FAIRPLAY for his admirably informative three letters on the Palestine problem. He must have gone a good deal out of his way to dig out all that data, and in these days with the mercury pointing at 100, his efforts are especially appreciated.

FAIRPLAY has not only put up an excellent case for the Jewish cause, but has approached the root of the trouble much nearer than all the argumentation of the pro-Zionist groups put together, when he says that the crux of the problem lies in "that the Government was in two minds, and only half in earnest because it did not know quite what it wanted." Whereas the great statesmen in England were fully aware of the implications of the Balfour Declaration and the Mandate, the local Palestine authorities have taken it into their minds that Palestine is first and foremost a newly acquired British colony, treating the matter of creating a Jewish Home there as incidental and of secondary importance.

An analysis of the operation of above policy in Palestine would lead too far, but an example of how such dual interpretation sometimes works out may not be out of place here. When Great Britain caused China to open Shanghai to foreign trade, an area was set apart for the residence of foreigners, and Capt. Balfour, the first British Consul to the port, was appointed to administer that area. He then issued a code of rules and regulations, and set up a régime tantamount to that of a British Colony, which led to complications with the Americans who claimed equal rights for themselves. It took several years of strenuous protests or the part of three successive American Consular representatives before the matter was forcibly brought to the attention of the British Government, when it transpired that Great Britain had never entertained any claim to exclusiveness, and so the Settlement finally acquired the status originally meant for it. Unfortunately, the situation in Palestine is much more complicated, but the analogy, I believe, holds good.

In conclusion, Sir, I would say that the Balfour Declaration cannot be classed with one of those war-time promises, as alluded to in your editorial. The Declaration was solemnly proclaimed before the whole world. Many millions of Jewish capital have been invested upon it, and heavy sacrifices made. On it are pinned the hopes and the future of a whole nation, and no government, least of all the British, can ignore it.

War or Peace:
More Realistic Realism

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Yet again I am going to abuse your hospitality—I mean of your columns, your kindly tolerance forthcoming. Being only a poor fool, as Master Will always did have it, and an antiquated one, I do hate to rush into print, rather leaving that to the others to do so. But there are times, when the wise do speak, when even a fool, poor or rich, perforce is moved to take note, and to comment on what he learns therefrom, as in the case in point. But let me that piece of wisdom. A sage writes, on the matter of the present conflict—intellectual as well as lethal, methinks! Quotes he, and him I quote in substance, that one of the contestants, on the side of which he stands "does not expect victory; why, it is one chance in a hundred of success, but there is no alternative. There must be a showdown. Then, and then only will there be lasting peace!" The old, old chestnut! And this on the very top of what he said in the introductory of his argument that "we all know that war is wrong. No man in his right senses wants war except profit-seeking munition taipans. War is subtle hypocrisy....just another excuse for 'legalized' wholesale murder.....authorized massacre.....sacrifice of the flowers of our youth.....just for an idealistic principle, which we do not even believe."

Our old professor on Logic used to say, "It is by logic sustained to the end that the logical is attained." Perhaps the old bird was right! And, my dear sage, if a mere roof might make so familiar:

The ill we often blame on fate,
But comes of want of thinking straight!

Meaning no harm, yours humbly

Canton Bombing:
Sentiment v. Logic

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Your correspondent HERMAN has taken issue with me over my letter concerning the Canton Bombings. As in most cases of this nature, sentiment overrides logic or reason and HERMAN has either purposely or accidentally misconstrued the points I raised.

I wish to repeat that a War is actually being fought, call it what we may, and as Canton is a fortified city and important military base it is the natural objective of the enemy's forces. War usually means life or death to one or both parties in the conflict. Canton is perhaps the most important centre for incoming military supplies to the Chinese forces—is it then so surprising for the Japanese forces to try and isolate a city through which arms and ammunition to be used against them are imported? That innocent civilians are killed or wounded when such attacks take place is indeed unfortunate, and the sympathy of all human beings goes out to the victims.

As far as I personally am concerned my sympathy also goes out to the victims of the Canton bombings, or any other bombing, and I am not lacking"...that lovable spark of common humanity that is inherent in every decent human being," as HERMAN chooses to infer.

In fact, as far as the present Sino-Japanese conflict is concerned, my sympathy goes back nearly a year—to August 14, 1938—when I was an eye-witness to the terrible holocausts at the Bund/Nanking Road corner, and at the junction of Avenue Edward VII and Yu Yah Ching Road. It pains me to remind HERMAN that these bombings (and machine-gunnings) were carried out by Chinese aviators. It was also a Chinese plane which bombed a defenseless passenger liner—the Dollar ss. President Hoover—just off Woosung on August 30 last.

When I quoted samples of Great War "frightfulness" it was done not with the idea of excusing such acts, whether perpetrated by Britain, Japan, Germany, Spain or any other country, but to show that as long as we have wars such acts of frightfulness are bound to occur, with the civilian population the victims invariably. An unfortunate corollary of our modern civilization seems to be that the more civilized we become, the more "frightful" our wars and death-dealing instruments become. Even without very "modern" means of warfare, China's internecine conflicts — especially General Chiang Kai-shek's seven campaigns against the Chinese Red armies — took toll of several million lives, mostly civilian, during the past several years.

As regards China's peace-loving status, HERMAN evidently skipped over my paragraph in this connection. When I stated that China has not attacked other nations because she has not yet "grown up," I was speaking from a physical (or military) point of view. But I did state that China has consistently endeavoured to "attack" other nations in various other ways, an enumeration and elucidation of which would occupy far too much of your valuable space. That China has not succeeded in such attacks, does not make her "Not Guilty."

I am afraid that HERMAN has missed the gist of my original letter, and if he will read over my correspondence again he may possibly understand things from my point of view.

Those Medals:
Women Who Did Their Bit

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—With reference to the medals that both the French and Shanghai Municipal Councils are distributing among those men who saw service during the recent "Undeclared War," I might point out that the same consideration might be tendered to the few women, who likewise, in their own way did their bit during the hostilities and did not leave Shanghai.

In bringing this matter up before the public, I have one particular lady in mind, and that is Miss Georgina Fuller of the Clarendon Club, who during the trouble not only sheltered but fed dozens of refugees who came to her door. Like her, there are a few others, mostly business women, who stayed during the trouble and continued the struggle while others had the advantage of leaving the scene of the conflict. If the Municipal Council would take measures to investigate who those women were and tender them the same consideration as the men are being given, I think that Shanghai in general would greatly appreciate their action.

Chinese Gelatine:
What is it Made From?

To the Editor of the
"NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS"

SIR,—Now that the hot weather is with us there will no doubt be many who will be interested in the matter of light summer foods and the object of this letter is to seek information regarding the origin and food value of Chinese gelatine (洋菜). I understand that this is manufactured from seaweed and that most if not all of it, is imported from Japan. I have also been told that it is identical with Agar—agar. On the other hand some have said it (Yang Tseh 洋菜) is made from a variety of bean and others that it is derived from fish bones, but none of my informants are absolutely certain about their information. This product jells quite easily and sets quite firmly without the use of ice.

Can any of your readers supply the required information from an authoritive source?

The Woolsack

The Englishman's love of tradition is so great that any minor event concerning an established custom is a topic for public discussion. When the Woolsack recently became due for re-stuffing, it was found to be filled, not with wool, but with horse-hair! This was a bitter blow.

Six hundred years ago it was decreed that the Lord Chancellor's seat in the House of Lords should be a sack of wool, to remind Parliament that wool was once the foundation of England's greatness. There was good reason why the Woolsack should always be filled with wool, and wool only. But it is never too late to remedy matters, and the Woolsack is now being re-stuffed with the genuine article. This time, however, the Government is going one better and using the mixed clippings of sheep from different parts of the Empire.

Civil Servant Sentenced

Frank Sheppard, aged 46 of Winchmore Hill, an official of the Ministry of Labour pleaded guilty mid-June to a charge under the Bribery and Corruption Act, and was sentenced to three months imprisonment in the second division.

He was charged with "having as an agent of the Crown, corruptly received £100 from Ernest James Simon, as an inducement or reward for showing favour or for forbearing to show disfavour to him in relation to the affairs of the Crown." Two other charges were receiving £50 and £3 from other men. Sheppard was a clerical officer earning £322 a year.

Sheppard is reported to have said that his actions may have been indiscreet, but never through any action of his had any alien landed in this country who would not have been allowed to land, or any alien permitted to continue a stay in this country whose case did not conform to the regulations in every single detail.

Sixty Years Ago

FROM THE "NORTH-CHINA DAILY NEWS," OF JULY 21, 1878

Yesterday evening we had one of the grandest sights I've witnessed for a long time. The day had been intensely hot; the mercury standing at 99° in the shade about 4 p.m. In the evening the wind began to blow strong from the southwest, gradually veering round to the eastward. At about 7 p.m heavy clouds appeared in the southwest with occasional flashes of heat lightning. Later on clouds also began to litt above the northeastern horizon, and from both quarters flashes of lightning were seen and the rumbling of distant thunder was heard. With a strong wind still blowing, the clouds lifted and spread, till by a few minutes past 8 o'clock they formed dark battling mass, which met in the zenith, and sent forth an incessant blaze of sheet lighting, and an almost continuous rumble of muffled thunder, with occasional zigzag flashes of brilliant fire, followed by sharp, detonating peals that seemed to shake the earth itself. Along both the eastern and western horizon, there was a strip of clear, but beautifully coloured sky, a couple of degrees in width perhaps, and just at this juncture, the full-orbed moon arose above the eastern horizon presenting in its deep clear colour and full face as it ascended in the calm majesty a contrast with the warring elements overhead, forming a scene which for grandeur and impressiveness is seldom surpassed. Shortly after the moon was obscured and by 8 o'clock or thereabouts, a fine rain was falling, which continued at intervals till about 2 o'clock this morning. Everything looks refreshed today, and there are indications of more rain to follow, it is very much needed, for from every direction come reports of the crops beginning to suffer.

Maskee's Anniversary

Enthusiastic patrons of the Maskee Night Club, seeing that time flies quickly, will note with surprise that this popular establishment is celebrating its first anniversary tomorrow under the management of Mr. Horst Riehmer. By the way of an innovation, a huge birthday cake has been baked and, in the usual course of events, first come first serve. Late arrivals may find themselves without cake.

These air-conditioned and air-cooled premises recently were redecorated by the Austrian artist, Freddie Schiff, the motif being strictly in keeping with the current season—breezy beaches, bathing suits, shower baths and beautiful bathing beauties, all done in modernist style. The two cocktail bars promise cooling refreshments.

George Sellers, at the pino, likewise celebrates an anniversary. He was there on the opening night and continues to regale guests with his insidious dance melodies. Supporting him are Gene Kirkor and Ardatoff.

Not the least of the attractions at the Maskee is the spotless kitchen, under the personal supervision of Mr. Riehmer, who a chef by avocation, divides his time between the ballroom and the electric range. Tasty midnight suppers and snacks, as well as dinners, may be ordered a la carte or by telephone.

Some Luck for Annabella

That delightful little French actress Annabella has not been too happy in her screen stories since she left France. "Dinner at the Ritz," which she made recently in England, was something of a flop, and "The Baroness and the Butler" made by Twentieth Century Fox in Hollywood, did not add to her prestige. But Darryl Zanuck, the shrewd head of that producing company, admitted that Annabella's failure to make a hit was not entirely her fault. He has given her a better chance in "Suez," which is now in production in Hollywood, and he is tremendously pleased with her work.

This film is another epic and should be of outstanding interest. It is not, as the title might suggest, just another tale of the tropics, but the story of the building of the Suez Canal, and of the man who carried out this mighty achievement. De Lesseps, the famous French engineer, is being played by Tyrone Power, and Annabella is the girl who loves him and is ready to follow him to the ends of the earth. There are some wonderful backgrounds, and the strong supporting cast includes Loretta Young, Joseph Schildkraut, Sidney Blackmer, Nigel Bruce and Henry Stephenson.

Future for English Player

In Hollywoo from London Holiday David Niven to Act in "Cowboy and the Lady"

Back to Hollywood has gone David Niven, the most normal young Englishman who ever became a film actor and remained himself, writes Stephen Watts in the "Sunday Express."

The job that demands his return is "The Cowboy and the Lady," starring Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon.

"Gary is the cowboy and Merle is the lady," said Niven when we we lunched together. "I think my part must be the horse."

Before leaving for this holiday his last films were both with Loretta Young—"Four Men and a Prayer" and "Three Blind Mice."

It was an important moment for Niven to play in a Loretta Young picture. She—and her family—had a great deal to do with his early days in Hollywood. He is eternally grateful to them, though they did their best to keep him out of pictures.

"The Divorce of Lady X"

Merle Oberon and Laurence Olivier soon will be at the Nanking.

He was spending a week-end with the Young family and confided to them that he longed to get into films, but nobody would take him seriously.

He had tried indoor horse-racing in New York, wine selling in Cuba and reporting in Canada. He reached California in a small Japanese freighter. But still he couldn't convince anybody that he seriously wanted a job.

Would Not be Dissuaded

The Young family did their best to dissuade him. "We're not going to help in anybody's disillusionment," they said. "So we'll tell you the truth at once. We won't raise a finger to help you to get into pictures."

When the week-end was over Niven made to go. "Where?" demanded the candid Youngs. He tried to lie. They said, "Nonsense, you're staying here." And for six weeks he did.

Then a typical Hollywood thing happened. At a dinner party he met Sam Goldwyn, to whom he had applied a dozen times for a test.

"Why don't you let me see a test of you?" asked Sam suddenly. The result was a seven years' contract, of which Niven has now worked about three years and made himself one of the most popular of featured players —that little regiment of non-stars for whom, I find, filmgoers have a great affection. Niven's performance in "The Prisoner of Zenda" alone put him very high in that class.

Early in his film career he had a galling—but funny—experience. He played a tiny part in an unimportant picture. All he had to do was open a door and walk into a room. He did not even know what the rest of the story was.

When the pre-view came he took a girl friend. As the film proceeded he recognized the scenery and excitedly whispered to the girl, "Here I come."

The door opened and a completely strange young man walked in and played Niven's part. Nobody had bothered to tell him he had been "replaced."

Mae West Liked Him

When he made his first test the director said, "Do something." Niven had never acted in his life. He was petrified to realize that with that two-word instruction the camera had started. On impulse he told a couple of not very polite stories.

The next he heard of that test was an offer to be Mae West's leading man in her next picture!

Niven loves the Hollywood life but swears that the moment his career looks like weakening he'll up and leave Hollywood for ever.

He lives quietly in a tiny house with one servant. Has only two luxuries—golf and tennis clubs.

For the rest, his principal ambition in life is not to be a great film actor. It is never to go broke again.

Tears to Order

To see Sylvia Sidney at her best there must be some good strong emotional situations in her films—and when it comes to tears she has no rivals. That is literally true in the most practical way.

She is the only actress in films who can bring on a downpour of real tears without artificial aids and at a moment's notice. No onions, no glycerine, no soft music, no interval while she goes off in a corner and thinks of something sad. Sylvia, the directors' joy, can just stand right there in front of the camera and let the tears well up and spill over.

Its a great gift. And the funny thing is she is the most un-cry-baby sort of person in real life.

In her latest film—"You and Me" Sylvia is in the same directorial hands as in "Fury." And if Fritz Lang can find the same form again we may have the picture of the year.

Again he has taken a crime-social theme, the plight of a boy and a girl who have served prison sentences, fall in love, and try to make their way in the world while on parole. Falling in love, by the way, is forbidden by the parole bond!

I'm told that George Raft, whose performance in "Souls at Sea" suggested new resources of acting ability, here gives the performance of his life.

Must be Genuine

Sylvia Sidney seems to be the natural choice for the part of the poor, working-class girl at whom fate and society take a series of kicks. Which proves something, maybe, because she never had a day's hardship in her life. Her family were well-to-do and she became a star without any of the usual heartbreaks.

Fritz Lang has a passion for realism down to the minutest details. When he was directing "You and Me" there was a scene in which George Raft had to scribble down a column of figures and add them up.

Lang would have no nonsense. The actor must genuinely write down impromptu figures and genuinely add them up.

Mr. Smith Visits England

Since the days of Rin-Tin-Tin there has been no animal actor—no live one, that is to say, for Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck belong to a different order—whose activities can command newspaper headlines. But now a wire-haired terrier has stepped into the shoes, or shall slipped into the collar of that Alsatian of beloved memory.

You may know him under any one or all three names of Skippy, Asta and Mr. Smith. He has appeared in a number of American films, though perhaps he will be best remembered as the delightful Asta in "The Thin Man." Skippy, as he prefers to be called in private life, is insured for £1,000 and, believe it or not, he has a stand-in who is in turn insured for £300. The insurance is paid by the film company, who also pay Skippy, in the person of his trainer, Mr. East, a handsome salary. Skippy went to England to appear with Gracie Fields in her new picture "Piccadilly Circus." Under the quarantine laws he has to be isolated in a special kennel near the set, from which he emerges only when duty calls. But it is a very palatial kennel with a large run, so he is quite happy.

Hailing a New Edward Everett Horton

In "Holiday" no Longer a "Zasu Pitts in Pants"

The role of college professor is lush with comic opportunities of the absent-minded "where-on-earth-are-my-glasses?" (business of finding them parked on the forehead) genre. That's why it's all the more remarkable to find Edward Everett Horton, of all people, playing a straight college professor.

Suddenly a new Horton is hatched —a Horton without a double-take-em to his name, without grimaces or mock shudders, a Horton with authentic dignity, and—crowning wonder—a Horton married to a wife who respects his manly feelings.

The Horton in question is the Horton who plays Professor Nick Potter in Columbia's film version of the Philip Barry stage success, "Holiday," which, co-stars Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant. Jean Dixon is Mrs. Potter, and though the two give comedy its due value, scenarists Donald Ogden Stewart and Sidney Buchman and director George Cukor have allowed them a few moments of ordinary human seriousness.

All of which, to the Horton cognoscenti, is not so much actually a matter of a brand-new Horton as it is a reversion to the old—to the Horton of the stock-company phase who played everything from glamorous hero to Simon Legree, and occasionally toyed with the thought that some day he might even do "Othello."

Pleased with Opportunity

Horton himself is pretty much pleased with the opportunity of playing a Potter whose hand does not shake, and who mars no pot—or part —in the making; a professor who is neither a dithering imbecile nor a glutton for the multiple take. For there has always been a certain healthy two-mindedness in Horton's attitude toward the dithering type of role. He enjoys it because it brings in large quantities of mail and higher income bracket checks.

But he deplores it—and revels the more in his current incarnation—because he remembers the days back in Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute (he is Brooklyn-born), Oberlin College and Columbia University, in which he was the local Robert Taylor —playing heroes and romantic parts

His habit of looking like a rueful horse had not established itself in those days. Neither had he, when he played stock throughout the country, developed that technique of fluttery terror which has given him, in innumerable film roles, all the comedy value of a Zasu Pitts in pants. He had not learned to scuttle about the stage like a panic-stricken marsupial robbed of its young, nor had he developed a certain muliebrity of manner which has caused certain of the more captious among filmgoers to accuse him of effeminacy. The coy virility of his approach to members of the weaker sex is also a phase of his later growth.

Chatterton to Make "A Royal Divorce"

British Studio, French Napoleon, U.S. Josephine

Ruth Chatterton started work at Denham recently in her first important film part since her brilliant performance in "Dodsworth," made nearly two years ago, says a film correspondent in "Sunday Express."

In the interval—after what was hailed as a great "comeback" for the first important actress of the talkie era—her sole appearance on the screen was in "The Rat."

This from Jack Raymond, who directed the picture, was undertaken by her in friendship at his request. Now Mr. Raymond is going to direct her in a really big part—the Empress Josephine in "A Royal Divorce."

A picture of such dimensions cannot be made ready in a week, so I asked Miss Chatterton why, contrary to the usual film practice. "A Royal Divorce" was practically on the eve of going into production before the first announcement was made.

"Because we had no Napoleon," she said. "And we couldn't make the picture without Napoleon."

The Napoleon-Josephine story has been close to the star's heart for several years. She roughed out the film treatment on paper in Hollywood about three years ago. But when the director she wanted to make it was unable to free himself from other engagements she put the idea aside. Then came "Dodsworth."

"After that you must have had scores of offers in Hollywood." I said.

"Yes," said Miss Chatterton, "but they didn't interest me. Apart like Fran Dodsworth comes once in a long time. And I am determined not to do anything I don't want to do. It is so easy to become swamped in work one does not really like.

"When I became a star on the stage at the age of seventeen and a-half I cried for a day because I felt all my private happiness would disappear. Since then I have tried to combine my work with my own inclinations, and keep some freedom and happiness.

Finding Napoleon

"So instead of making more films after 'Dodsworth.' I came over here and did Managham's 'Constant Wire' on the stage. That was what I wanted to do."

"Now about Napoleon," I said. "How did you find him?"

"I was in Paris and I told Francoise Rosay—you remember her in 'La Kermesse Heroique'—about my story. She said. 'Pierre Blanchar is your man, but I don't know if he speaks English.' He came to lunch, and I knew at a glance he was exactly right. He was very timid about his English, and wouldn't venture a word at first. Then I found that while he has difficulty in following the gabble of conversation he speaks very well."

Prints and paintings will find reproduction in full-size sets at Denham. Speeches, some of them surprisingly modern in tone and applicability, others unexpectedly light and witty, have been lifted from history.

So careful is Miss Chatterton about detail that I felt it hurt her to tell me that Josephine's coronation gown train will be 21 feet long, whereas the real one was 42 feet.

Richard Greene, the dashing, young English newcomer currently at work in Sonja Henie's new musicals "My Lucky Star," will next play the leading role in the picture tentatively titled "Splinter Fleet." In other key roles are Slim Summerville, George Bancroft, Douglas Fowley, Preston Foster, John Carradine, Joan Valerie and Warren Hymner.

Return of the "Kid"

The later career of Jackie Coogan must be a warning to the very young. Twenty years ago he suddenly burst upon the world in all his glory. Chaplin found him and presented him as "The Kid." The child very nearly stole the picture from the screen's most popular comedian. Vast multitudes raved about him and very soon, as was inevitable, he was a star on his own account. In "Peck's Bad Boy," "Johnny Get Your Gun" and half a dozen or so of other pictures he maintained his vogue.

Then he ceased to be a fascinating "kid"; the gawky processes of growing up began to threaten him and with sound he almost passed out of the screen. His career had seemingly come to an end in a few years. One heard of him going to college and one heard of imminent resurrections. Recently there were rumours of his appearance in Westerners and, as all the world knows, his money affairs have been made the subject of family jars. His marriage with Miss Betty Grable brought him into the limelight and with her he made his re-appearance in College Swing.

This picture makes it doubtful if the once famous Jackie Coogan can hope for anything like a famous future. But Mrs. Coogan is vigorous and attractive. There are, therefore, chances that the boy with the starry eyes may remain before the public in the company of his wife. But there remains the rather saddening moral for the popular juvenile, that popularity may easily pass and all the magnetic little tricks of the child actor or actress will count as nothing for endurance against the matured and intelligent technique of a man or woman who can really act.

Claire Trevor has been assigned by 20th Century-Fox to play the romantic lead in "Five Of A Kind," the new Dionne Quintuplets picture. Jean Hersholt and Joan Davis are the other two players so far assigned to the cast supporting the baby stars.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

A WISE VERDICT

It is one of the good points about the jury system that juries do quite often come between a defendant and the passionless application of the law, and the case of Dr. Aleck William Bourne, senior obstetrician of St. Mary's Hospital, London, is an excellent example of what is meant. Some weeks ago a young girl was the victim of a criminal assault, for which two young soldiers have been sent to penal servitude for four years, and a third, merely charged with attempt, to hard labour for twenty-two months. The girl was subsequently found to be pregnant, and Dr. Bourne performed an operation which relieved her of that consequence of the men's evil act. He accepted no fee for what he did, and, in order to test the whole legal position, informed Scotland Yard of what he had done. A summons was issued, and, following preliminary hearings, he was committed for trial at the Old Bailey, where the jury found him not guilty of the offence charged under Section 58 of the Offences Against the Person Act of 1861. Mr. Justice Macnaghten in his summing up drew the necessary distinction between the case and that of professional abortion, and the jury rendered a decision on a long standing issue which had thus been brought to a head by the action of the defendant doctor. In taking the steps he did Dr. Bourne showed himself possessed of the courage of his conviction, for, if he had failed to establish his case, not only would he have had to suffer the penalties provided by the law, but it is conceivable that the General Medical Council would have had to investigate the matter with a view to his removal from the medical register. He was, therefore, not only imperilling his liberty by what he did, but running the risk of being deprived of the right to earn his livelihood in the profession in which he is an eminent figure. The real question at issue was not whether he had committed a breach of the law, but whether in the circumstances he was justified in what he did. The jury appears to have come to the conclusion that there was justification for the line of conduct he had pursued, and that is to be taken as the real significance of their verdict.

From earlier reports to hand it appears that many members of the medical profession expressed their warm appreciation of the manner in which Dr. Bourne had faced issues vitally important to the profession and general public, and there is every probability that, had a conviction been obtained, considerable agitation would have been set afoot to relieve him of whatever penalty might have been inflicted. The decision, nevertheless, is bound to create a storm of controversy. On the one side there will be those of the very definite conviction that once the process of life has commenced it should not be interfered with. It is a view which, for reasons spiritual, moral and ethical, cannot be lightly set aside, and in the generality of cases it is one which in the communal interest cannot be denied. Too wide an opening of the door in this respect would entail grave dangers to the moral stamina of a nation, and for that reason the merit of the general doctrine has to be conceded. But there is in this present case questions of absolute justice which may permit some modification of the general principle. They may be summed up quite briefly:—Should the victim of this outrage be permitted to suffer what might be a life-long penalty for a grievous wrong perpetrated upon her? Should she be condemned to the ignominy of having to bring an illegitimate child into the world, to provide for its maintenance, and suffer all the disadvantages which a woman in such a condition much necessarily endure? The wrong-doing has not been hers: and a rigid application of the principle which has been conceded above would inevitably mean that this young girl would be condemned to suffer the continuing penalty of her innocence. Justice demands that the innocent shall not be punished, but unless Dr. Bourne, or some other medical man equally inspired with the sentiments which apparently dominated him, had come to this child's rescue, all the innocency in the world would not have relieved her from the future pain and suffering which must have followed. Those considerations appear to have influenced not only the jury, but also the judge, and in this conflict between the law and human conception of justice the latter has been allowed to prevail.

The law cannot be drafted to meet all cases. As G. N. Lewis has written "Exact laws, like all other ultimates and absolutes, are as fabulous as the crock of gold at the rainbow's end." The jury's decision was not the only solution of the problem presented, though it was certainly the most effective. Had they performed what in all the circumstances appears to have been their bounden duty, they could have presented a verdict of guilty with a recommendation to mercy, and the Judge might very well then have passed upon the defendant a purely nominal sentence. That would have been a vindication of the law, but a denial of that justice which Dr. Bourne sought upon the broader principles of common humanity. In effect his case to the jury was "Here are the facts, do you believe, in view of all that has happened, that I was not justified in taking the course I did?" The jury gave the reply he had the right to expect in view of all the circumstances, and in doing so vindicated those ideals of justice which cannot always find expression in legal textbooks, for the simple reason that it is impossible to legislate against all possible contingences. If ever there were a case in which a "true deliverance" has been made between "our sovereign lord the King and the prisoner at the Bar" it is undoubtedly here, and while legal purists may deplore departure from bounden duties, those who desire that substantial justice shall prevail in the world will be gratified by its result. Fortunately, the decision involves no radical change of the law on the subject, nor any abatement of principles. Dr. Bourne sought to remedy a grievous wrong as far as it was possible by the exercise of his professional skill. He made no secret of what he did, and he is to be congratulated on the moral courage and public spirit which he has displayed in this matter. It is a tribute to the humanity of his profession and the high-mindedness which sought a decision on a very difficult problem.

Whose the Fault?

The correspondence on the subject of "War or Peace" is tending to follow the usual lines, and now a correspondent goes back to the old familiar argument that the only people who want war are munitions manufacturers. It is possible that the same reproach was levelled against the bowyer and the fletcher in those days before the invention of gunpowder commenced to confer such added terrors to the inevitable struggles between kingdoms and races. Their answers to the reproach would be the same as that which the manufacturers of the more advanced weapons of today rely upon. It is a simple one. There would be no munitions manufacture if there were no demand for such goods, that demand creates the supply and not vice versa. That there are very unpleasant aspects to the trade in arms and munitions, that their manufacturers can hardly escape from the reproach of fostering enmities, and indulging in intrigues for the furtherance of their trade has to be admitted. All this, however, is but symptomatic of the real evil, and that is that humanity has not yet arrived at that state of advancement which enables it to see that war settles nothing, but breeds occasions for the renewal of the struggle. Mankind is possessed of the ability of preventing war, if it will but make use of if. Were it to do so the munitions makers would be speedily out of business, and, when international violence becomes as unfashionable as the bow and arrow, the makers of today's highly ingenious weapons of destruction will follow the bowyer and the fletcher out of business. It is all very well to select the munitions manufacturer as the whipping boy for humanity's faults, but it has no more justification than blaming the grower of vines and the distiller for the evil results of abuse of their products. Destroy the demand and the suppliers will have to turn their attention to other activities. That is certainly not an easy remedy, but so long as humanity is what it is the total elimination of arms manufacture would not necessarily banish war. Staves and stones would still be available.

Definitely "No"

Evasions, equivocation and an ability for ingenious but entirely uninformative explanations are essential weapons in the politician's armoury for even in this advanced age of democracy an educated public is still supposed not to be told too much about anything. The cryptic remark of the late President Coolidge—"I do not choose to run"—is a case in point. As a piece of masterly equivocation it kept the American political world in a state of imponderable ferment because it was sufficiently spiced with possibility that more effort was spent in interpreting its meaning than on any of the Delphic oracles. A time does come, however, when a politician must say "No" and it occurred recently in the House of Commons. Reports in American and Canadian newspapers describing the differences between Mr. Nevile Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, and Mr. Anthony Eden, his former Foreign Secretary, were the subject of a question by Mr. Geoffrey Mander who asked whether the interview had been given by the Prime Minister. The reports were not in the form of an interview but were apparently based on an authoritative statement, and Mr. Mander declared that if information on this fundamental difference was to be given it should be given to the House first and not to the American press. Mr. Chamberlain was pointed in his answer. He said:

> I am not going to satisfy Mr. Mander's curiosity. I am not going to attempt to deny or affirm anything in connection with a statement in this paper or a statement in any other paper at this time or any other time on matters of this or any other kind. That is my final word.

Mr. Mander then apparently resumed his seat abashed.

State Visit to France

The visit to France of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth has resulted in one of the greatest demonstrations of unrestrained joy and cordiality which it has ever been the pleasure of a British reigning couple to enjoy. The telegrams from Paris paint a wonderful picture of the French people's greeting offered in a manner which that people is able to achieve from a warmth of national character and a spontaneity of admiration and friendship typically French. European chancelleries are seething with reports of the vast implications of the political aspects of the visit for Europe dearly loves its Oppenheim suggestions. Even Italy sees such deeply-laid schemes behind the event that it has been dismissed in a few words in most newspapers. The truth is plain and undeniable. To its very heart of hearts, France has taken Their Majesties and showered upon them their warmest feelings of esteem as the country did to King George's father and his illustrious grandfather. The French and British characters are strangely dissimilar but personalities and traditions continue, and friendships endure. This obviously explains the nature of the welcome to the British royal couple for while paying tribute to the rulers whose graceful charm has endeared them to the French people the greater significance lies in the reaffirmation of those bonds of friendship which have united the two countries for many years and which have been proved by historic trial. In this welcome to their rulers, the British people appreciatively share although absent from the scene.

King George Honours French War Dead

Flanders Poppies Laid on Unknown Warrior's Tomb in Arc de Triomphe; "Entente Cordiale Has Lost Nothing of Its Strength"

Paris, July 20.

"THE Entente Cordiale has lost nothing of its strength and vitality," declared King George this morning, addressing the Paris Municipal Council at the Hotel de Ville, which he visited after laying a wreath of Flanders Poppies on the Unknown Warrior's tomb at the Arc de Triomphe. The foundations of the Entente, His Majesty declared, were laid by his father and grandfather.

The King thanked the Council for the "grace and beauty of our reception." "Never has the Hotel de Ville seen a more magnificent reception," the King declared. "The decorations, flowers, flags, and greenery made a perfect setting."

The Queen was dressed in a simple white ensemble.

Thousands of the populace gathered at the approaches to the Hotel de Ville, and cheered deliriously as Their Majesties arrived, and later departed for lunch at the Quai d'Orsay.

The King was in Field-Marshal's uniform for the wreathlaying ceremony at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, and was accompanied by Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador in Paris.

He was received by M. Auguste C. de Ribes, the French Minister of Pensions, while the band played the British and French National Anthems.

After the ceremony, the King signed the Golden Book, and then left for the Hotel de Ville by river.—Reuter.

Veterans Send Telegram

Paris, July 20.

The National Union of War Veterans of the Great War, one of the largest French war veterans' associations, sent the following telegram to the British Legion on the occasion of the visit of the King and Queen to Paris: "At the moment when your King and Queen are arriving in Paris and confirming the solidarity between our two countries, the president and members of the committee of the National Union of War Veterans extend to you the feelings of warmest friendship."—Trans-Ocean.

Splendid Welcome to Paris

Paris, July 20.

Salutes of 101 guns welcomed King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain yesterday afternoon when their royal train came into the Bois de Boulogne Station, to be greeted by the President of the French Republic, M. Albert Lebrun; the Premier, M. Edouard Daladier, and other Ministers of his Cabinet; M. Jules Jeanneney, President of the Senate, and M. Edouard Herriot, President of the Chamber of Deputies.

The British sovereigns' train pulled in at exactly 4.50 p.m. Millions of cheering, enthusiastic Parisians were gathered near the station and thronged the streets leading to the Quai d'Orsay, where the royal visitors will stay while in Paris.

At the same moment that the 101 salutes were fired by the battery of guns, thousands of pigeons were released, as a symbol of Anglo-French love for peace. A gigantic Union Jack was hoisted at the top of the Eiffel Tower at the same time.

The Band of the Republican Guard rendered the British and French national anthems, while the Band of the Fusiliers played "Aux Champs."

Unparalled Enthusiasm

Then the British sovereigns and President Lebrun walked together to the steps leading out of the stations. They mounted these to the pavement and then entered their respective cars to motor slowly to the Quai d'Orsay. Unparalleled scenes of enthusiasm were witnessed en route as Paris gave the visitors a royal welcome.

As soon as the royal couple and the President appeared at the entrance to the station, the crowd massed outside raised a thunderous cheer. This swelled in volume as the trio, and their attending groups of personalities, began the ride to the Palace where the state visitors will make their home for the next few days.

The frantic cheering was one vast sound that became indistinguishable, but nevertheless appeared clearly as a unanimous demonstration of the French people's friendship for the British people. Hats, flags, handkerchiefs and anything else that was at hand, were waved and tossed in the air in expression of exuberant welcome. For once it looked as though usually-calm Paris had run mad.

"Vive Le Roi, Vive La Reine;" and "Vive L'Angleterre" were among the cries that the French hosts voiced in giving right royal welcome to the sovereigns.

Brilliant Procession

Eleven cars made up the procession through the packed streets. Motorcyclists preceded the British and French officials. Spahis in their brilliantly-hued uniforms also made up part of the procession, lending colour with their red capes, white turbans and broad blue trousers.

King George had on the uniform of a Admiral of the Fleet, while the President Lebrun was dressed in a tail-coat. They sat together in the first car and smilingly responded to the cheers of the populace. The King held his two-cornered hat in his hand and bowed, while the President saluted continually with his top hat.

In the second car were the Queen and Madame Lebrun, while other officials followed on. At the end of the procession was another detachment of Spahis.

About 40,000 men of all branches of France's armed forces, lined the roads, forming an avenue of which the sides were four ranks of soldiers. This human barrage was stretched along six kilometres. Behind these soldiers were massed the frantically-cheering people, who could hardly breathe but nevertheless kept up their endless hurrahs.

Extraordinarily Dense Crowds

In the Place de la Concorde alone, the massed throng equalled in number the population of a fairly large city but crowded a space required by only a small village. Eagerly they watched the procession wend its majestic way along the Champs Elysees. Cordons were formed here by units of the mechanized army, but the peo-

Anglo-French Plans For Collaboration

Political Discussions Begun in April to Be Continued in Paris

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Paris, July 20.

The conversations between Lord Halifax, the British Foreign Secretary; M. Georges Bonnet, the French Foreign Minister, and M. Eduard Daladier, the French Premier, continued throughout today, the talks representing the "business side" of the Royal visit.

A communique, which will be issued later, is expected to deal with the maintenance of Anglo-French collaboration and confirm the agreement reached in London on April 29 regarding contacts between the French and British general staffs.—Reuter.

Military Collaboration

Paris, July 20.

These parleys will be devoted chiefly to Anglo-French military co-operation, as dealt with previously in the April 29 communique following ministerial conferences in London, authoritative political quarters claim.

This military collaboration is already tantamount to a defensive alliance but it is understood the ministers today will decide to enhance further this co-operation between the two countries' General Staffs. It will be recalled that the close contacts maintained by Britain's and France's military forces originated at the time that Germany denounced the Locarno Treaty, being confirmed when the French statesmen, M. Daladier and M. Bonnet, visited London in late April this year.

War Supplies Scheme

Important steps have been taken since then, politicians assert. The competent British and French authorities have co-ordinated their efforts in purchasing raw materials while the creation of a joint Purchasing Office is anticipated in the event of a war. Also, Britain has taken account of the French situation with regard to carrying out the air armaments programme.

Both Britain and France have placed orders for teraplanes in the United States, and among the types purchased is one similar to that in which Mr. Howard Hughes circled the globe in less than four days last week.

Co-ordinated action on the part of the British and French navies and land forces, is foreseen in the event of war, although a unified command is not yet contemplated, diplomats aver.

Authoritative French quarters are confident, it is pointed out significantly, that Britain would side with France, should the latter be obliged to enforce her pacts with allies in central Europe. London gave notification of such a stand to the Reich on the occasion of the May 21 elections crisis in Czechoslovakia, it is noted. Furthermore, just recently, the French Premier, M. Daladier, re-emphasized France's determination to stand by pledges to Prague, and Britain approved of this declaration, proving the close understanding existing between the two countries, diplomats confidently conclude.—Havas.

Bluejackets Strengthen Hankow Force

Total of British Sailors Brought to 330

Hankow, July 20.

The party of 110 British bluejackets, which left Kowloon by train on Monday, is expected to arrive here at about 10 p.m. today to supplement the sailors already in port.

In the event of extreme emergency, the bluejackets will co-operate with the foreign authorities to safeguard British interests and property in Hankow.

Four British gunboats are at present moored alongside the Hankow Bund. They are H.M.S. Mantis (625 tons), H.M.S. Gnat (625 tons), H.M.S. Falcon (372 tons) and H.M.S. Tern (262 tons).

Their crews total 220 men, but with the arrival of the trainload of bluejackets tonight, the total number of British sailors in Hankow will be 330.

The American gunboats Luzon, Tutuila, and Guam, and the French warships Amiral Charnier and Francis Garnier are also at Hankow.—Reuter.

Britain, France Renew Pledge Of Entente

King George Declares Community of Ideals

Paris, July 20.

When the King and Queen arrived at Elysee Palace for the banquet in their honour at 8 o'clock, the band of the Republican Guard played God Save The King and presented arms.

President and Madame Lebrun welcomed Their Majesties in the vestibule and presented the ladies of the household and their other guests, after which M. Lebrun and the Queen and Madame Lebrun and the King led the way to the dining hall.

In his speech, M. Lebrun expressed the sincere joy of France at greeting the sovereigns of a nation which was their friend.

He expressed sorrow at the circumstances (the death of the Queen's mother) which had led to the postponement of the Royal journey to Paris.

"Born of long tradition and confirmed by constant contact, thoughts and efforts, consecrated by the hardest trials and inspired by the same ideals of liberty and peace," M. Lebrun declared, "the friendship, which unites the two countries, has acquired, in the course of development, a strength which alone can be given by the same conception of human values and equal concern to face different problems of national and international life in a generous spirit of understanding.

"The Franco-British Entente founded by your illustrious grandfather gave, under the glorious reign of George V, a measure of its efficacy during the dark period of the World War.

"In the world's present state of moral unrest," M. Lebrun continued, "great obligations still lie on the two nations, both equally interested in human progress.

"The maintenance of peace, within the limits of respect for international law, neither permits hesitation regarding the task to be accomplished nor a falling off of the daily effort towards this end, to which all our thoughts should most firmly be directed."

The King, speaking in French, said that he was deeply touched at the welcome which had been accorded them. He declared that it would be impossible to recall a period in which British and French relations were more intimate.

They were inspired by the same ideals and had the same attachment to democratic principles and the same belief in the benefits of individual liberty.

"We are proud of this political faith which we share with other great nations," the King declared.

"We fully realize, however, that it carries with it heavy responsibilities and, in the period in which we live, it demands from us all, to a high degree, the noble qualities of courage, wisdom and determination."

The King emphasized that the friendship of Great Britain and France was directed against no other Power. On the contrary, he said, their Governments ardently desired to find, by means of international agreements, a solution to the political problems now threatening the peace of the world, and to the economic difficulties which were restricting human well-being.

The action of their Governments was thus directed towards the common goal of assuring the happiness of the peoples of the world by means of true co-operation.

In conclusion, the King stated that he was deeply touched by M. Lebrun's wishes for the greatness and prosperity of Great Britain and the overseas Dominions, and he drank a toast to the honour and glory of France.—Reuter.

Paris, July 19.

Great significance is attached in local political circles to the addresses made this evening by King George VI and President Albert Lebrun at the reception at the Palais de l'Elysee.

In their speeches, the heads of the British and French States, hailed the community of their two democracies and the complete solidarity existing between Britain and France.

Politicians recall that Signor Benito Mussolini and Reichsfuhrer Adolf Hitler also lauded the community of Italo-German ideals, based on a mutual aversion to democratic "Utopia," when the Fuehrer visited Rome at the beginning of May. The same observers also note that the King and the President declared peace and justice can be achieved only through ideals which are hardly those upheld by Italy and the Reich, but they also emphasized the fact that the Anglo-French entente is not directed against any Power.

Especial significance is attached to the President's reference to the necessity to maintain peace within respect for international law, which statement is taken to be in reference to French commitments in Central Europe and the Anglo-French efforts to ease the situation on the Continent.—Havas.

Herr Hitler's Aide Visits London To Urge Czech Issue Solution

Prague Ready to Present Minorities Statute But Sudeten Germans Indicate Dissatisfaction

Berlin, July 20.

CAPT. Fritz Wiedemann, aide-de-camp to Herr Adolf Hitler, is at present on a visit to London, where he has conferred with Viscount Halifax, British Foreign Secretary. The visit is officially described as private, but it is believed here that Capt. Wiedemann has emphasized the urgency of the Czechoslovakian problem, and has declared that there must be no further delay in finding a solution.

It is known that Herr Hitler is most dissatisfied with the lack of progress between the Sudeten Germans and the Czech Government.

It is felt that, while Germany might accept a compromise regarding the treatment accorded the Sudeten Germans and might acquiesce in a degree of local autonomy, the Reich authorities are not prepared to tolerate a continuance of Czechoslovakia's "connection with Russia," which is held responsible for the incidents that occur on the Czechoslovakian side of the border.—Reuter.

H.M. Envoy at Wilhelmstrasse

Berlin, July 19.

Sir Nevile Henderson, British Ambassador to Germany, called upon Freiherr von Weizsaecker, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, this evening. At the conference, the Czech problem came up for discussion, according to usually well-informed quarters.

The "Nazionale Zeitung," news organ, writes that the visit to London of the Fuehrer's aide-de-camp may be considered as "a continuation of Anglo-German conversations."—Havas.

Annexation Not Contemplated

Herr Adolf Hitler is not contemplating the annexation of the Sudeten districts in Czechoslovakia and he is ready to recognize any agreement between the Prague Government and the Sudeten German Party. Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, aide-de-camp to the Fuehrer, is declared in Government circles to have assured Lord Halifax. The same quarters claim that Capt. Wiedemann, who is known as a trusted friend of the Fuehrer, further advocated that Britain and Germany should unite in efforts to improve their relations. He is described as having stressed "the fact that there is no problem outstanding between the two countries." Capt. Wiedemann made no reference to Germany's colonial claims, it is noted.

Government circles appear to believe the visiting officer's friendly demarche at the moment that King George VI and Queen Elizabeth are visiting Paris, seeks to convince Britain that Anglo-German friendship is not impossible. Further, this demarche is seen as "an effort to show Britain that London should not unite with France against the Reich," though such a stand is not the objective of the British sovereigns' visit to France. The Anglo-French entente excludes no other country and is not aimed at any other Power.

In his recent interview with, Herr Hitler's Aide de Camp, Lord Halifax, registered with satisfaction the peaceful assurances given by the Reich and stated he would communicate them to the French Ministers, "The Times" declared this morning. The substance of the conversation has been communicated to the French Embassy here.—Havas.

Sudetens Not Satisfied

Prague, July 20.

Developments are expected soon in Czechoslovakia over the Sudeten problem.

It is understood the Government's Minorities Statute is now completed and will be submitted to Parliament within the next week.

Details of the Statute have not been disclosed. According to a usually well-informed newspaper, however, they provide a form of self-government for the various nationalities in the national diets, which have a large measure of autonomy in local administration.

The Sudeten Germans, however, do not indicate any satisfaction with the trend of events. Their headquarters have published the text of the memorandum, which was handed to the Government on June 7, demanding, among other things, that local and national administrations should be entitled to insist on the application of any measures which are voted on the second time, despite the adverse decision of the President or National Assembly.—Reuter.

President Roosevelt May Run for Third Term as Chief Executive

Tour of Country Proving His Popularity Still Undiminished; Good Successor Preferred

Washington, July 19.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt's tour through the United States was in fact a new demonstration of his popularity. The people's enthusiasm, which was manifested everywhere, was even accompanied on several occasions by formal requests that he run for the President's post in 1940 again, it is noted.

However, as regards a third term election, the President is maintaining close silence, reserving his decision for a more opportune moment.

Politicians are of the opinion that President Roosevelt is determined to pursue in general his political and administrative reforms, inaugurated with the New Deal, and to assure the prolongation of this policy after 1940.

The President would prefer, rather than take on a third four-year term as head of the country, find a capable successor to take over his task, it is said. If political reasons prevent him from realizing this desire, he will not hesitate to run for election a third time, politicians declare.

Encouraged by his tour westward, President Roosevelt is said to be envisaging a trip to the southern states and then to New England and along the Canadian frontier. His aim would be to look over the forces of those Democrats who are opposed to the New Deal, and of the Republicans.

This new tour will possibly take place in the early autumn, before the November elections, it is learnt.—Havas.

Mr. P. Prevot's Arrest Explained

Required to Give Security To Keep Peace and for Good Behaviour

Hankow, July 20.

The case against Mr. Peter Prevot, a British subject who was last month detained by the Chinese authorities for alleged espionage activities, was heard in the British Consular Court here this morning.

Mr. Prevot, who was born in Hongkong, was detained in Wuchang on June 28 while boarding a 'plane for Hongkong.

On hearing of Mr. Prevot's arrest, Mr. C. E. Whitamore, British Consul-General in Hankow, requested that he be handed over to him, and this request was immediately complied with.

Mr. Prevot pleaded guilty at this morning's hearing to infringement of Article 89 of the China Order-in-Council of 1925, which states:—

"Where it is proved that there is reasonable ground to apprehend that the acts or conduct of a British subject are likely to produce or excite a breach of public peace, the court may require him to give security to keep the peace or for his future good behaviour."

In pleading guilty to the charge, Mr. Prevot's counsel, Mr. C. E. Sherwin, said that the defendant wished to state that while his methods of gathering information might well cause the Chinese to become suspicious, he did not intend to use such information to the detriment of China.

The court ordered Mr. Prevot to furnish security of $5,000 on two sureties, both British subjects resident in Hankow.—Reuter.

Japanese Ships Bombed

Two Hit in Chinese Raid; Many Planes Claimed Destroyed at Hankow; Horrors at Hanyang

Hankow, July 20.

TWO Japanese warships were hit in a raid by Chinese aircraft on Japanese warship concentrations in the vicinity of Hukow yesterday morning, according to a communiqué issued by Chinese Aviation Headquarters.

Another warship, it is claimed, was hit in a second raid carried out at Hukow yesterday afternoon.

The air raid alarm was sounded at 10.30 a.m. today, when 18 Japanese bombers, escorted by pursuit 'planes, were sighted en route to Hankow. The "all-clear" signal was sounded at 11.15 a.m., when the Japanese 'planes were seen to be returning eastward.—Reuter.

The suburbs of Kiukiang were subjected to a severe aerial bombardment this morning by two Japanese heavy bombers, which were escorted by a number of pursuit planes.

The populace of Kiukiang is living a harrowing life, with air-raid sirens going all the time from morning until night, as Japanese aircraft are keeping up a continuous bombing of Chinese positions in the vicinity of Kiukiang.

Eighteen Japanese bombers this morning visited Ngochen and Anyang, on the south bank of the Yangtze south-east of Hankow, but the visitors left after dropping a few bombs.

The alarm was sounded twice in Hankow this morning, but on each occasion the Japanese raiders turned back after bombing cities below Hankow.—Reuter.

Chinese Attack Near Pengtseh

Hankow, July 20.

In an effort to check the westward advance of the Japanese along the south bank of the Yangtze, Chinese forces have launched an attack on the Japanese forces at Pengtseh, below Hukow. Fierce fighting is said to be at present in progress.

The Chinese, according to a military communiqué, have occupied the hills south-east of Pengtseh and have also cut off communications on the south bank between the Japanese at Pengtseh and those at Matung.

Today two Japanese warships shelled Chinese positions in the vicinity of Hukow while three more Japanese warships attempted to force their way upriver, but the latter are said to have been forced to turn back by Chinese artillery fire from the shore.

The fact that many Japanese transports have been sighted in the vicinity of Hukow and also the recent very heavy bombings of Kiukiang are taken here to indicate that a Japanese offensive is imminent on the Yangtze front.

One of these transports is claimed to have been sunk below Kiukiang today as a result of Chinese bombing.—Reuter.

Ground Planes Demolished

Seventeen Chinese planes were damaged or demolished on the ground and another was shot down in the air by Japanese naval aircraft in a raid on Hankow on Tuesday, Japanese naval authorities claimed in a communiqué issued yesterday morning.

Despite intense anti-aircraft fire the Japanese planes swooped down to within machine-gun range of the aerodrome, the communiqué said.

The raiders spotted at least 24 planes, including some dummies, on the ground at the aerodrome and in the vicinity of it, the communiqué said. The Japanese planes strafed five SB bombers, one Northrop bomber and a Douglass bomber, which were set on fire, the statement claimed.

Heavy damage was done to ten SB and Northrop bombers on the ground by the Japanese attackers, the communiqué continued.

One SB bomber which took to the air in an attempt to escape the attack was shot down, the communiqué added.

Machine-gun Posts Hit

Another naval air squadron bombed machine-gun positions at Wuchang and Snake Mountain, causing heavy damage. In a second raid on Hankow one SB bomber on the ground was demolished, the communiqué stated.

Naval aircraft also visited the Yangtze area near Yenki upstream from Huangshihki and attacked four boats, sinking two of them and a tug, while badly damaging the others, the communiqué declared.

When the Japanese planes approached about 200 Chinese soldiers were seen jumping into the river from the four vessels. Flying toward Kiukiang, the naval planes bombed Chinese field gun positions south and west of Hsinhsiang and near Paishihki and Lankiangchi. Bombs were dropped on Chinese positions near Hsiachuchiao also.

Chinese positions near Lion Hill, downstream from Kiukiang, were bombarded by warships on Tuesday, the communique revealed.

Japanese air raiders visited South China also, demolishing godowns at an arsenal at Pakonghow on the Canton-Hankow Railway, the communiqué said.

Population in Panic

Hankow, July 19.

A representative of Transocean made a tour of the city immediately after today's raid to ascertain the extent of the damage caused.

The bombing had obviously caused unprecedented panic among the Chinese population since the Han river separating Hankow from Hanyang was crowded with junks in which the panicstricken people were trying to flee.

Five bombs had exploded directly in the centre of the overcrowded Hanyang quarter, completely demolishing a large number of buildings. Although the exact number of victims is not known yet, it is estimated that in Hanyang alone over 500 persons were killed.

Small Material Damage

The material damage caused by the bombing is comparatively insignificant, since the bombs failed to hit any military objectives, although the chief aim of the raiders obviously was the destruction of the Chinese arsenal at Hanyang. The bombs aimed at the latter, however, missed their target, falling into the river or on to buildings in the residential quarter. Two bombs hit and destroyed a num-

Japan Awaits First Move from Moscow

Manchoukuo Frontier Incident Settlement Depends on Soviets

Tokyo, July 20.

Whether the incident on the Soviet-Manchoukuo border becomes serious or not depends entirely upon the attitude of the Soviet Union, according to a statement made today by a spokesman for the Foreign Office.

Replying to a question by a foreign correspondent, the spokesman said that Japan was quite ready to respond to any reaction on the part of the Soviet Government.

The spokesman revealed that General Kayushige Ugaki, Foreign Minister, last night instructed Mr. Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese Ambassador in Moscow, to repeat the protests made to the Soviet Government regarding the border incident, and also with regard to the alleged killing of a Japanese gendarme by the Soviet troops who are said to have seized Changkaofeng Hill.

Japan, the spokesman went on, will consider the organization of joint machinery for the settlement of border disputes if this is agreed upon by the Soviet Union.

Alleged Soviet Concession

Asked regarding a foreign press report that the Soviet Government was not taking a serious view of the border incident, which, it was said to contend, had been caused by the ambiguity of the frontier line, the spokesman said that the Soviet Government admitted the ambiguity of the frontier line, if press reports were correct, thus conceding at least one half of the claim of Japan and Manchoukuo.

The Soviet Union, the spokesman went on, should clarify the situation by withdrawing their troops from the Chankaofeng area, removing military works, and restoring the status quo before the incident.

A correspondent of the "Asahi Shimbun," who proceeded to Keiki, a Korean border town on the Tumen River, reports that the Japanese and Manchoukuo authorities are "preparing for any eventuality."

The correspondent says that about two divisions of the Red Army are now massed at Novokievsk, while four military airfields have been established between that point and Parapash.—Reuter.

Anglo-Japanese Talks At Gaimusho Denied

Spokesman Discounts Tokyo Press Reports of Meetings

Tokyo, July 20.

Press reports that important Anglo-Japanese conversations would be started tomorrow between Gen. Kazushige Ugaki, the Japanese Foreign Minister, and Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, the British Ambassador here, were denied by a Foreign Office spokesman today.

No important question requiring such exceptional handling existed between Japan and Britain at present, the spokesman claimed.

Wide publicity was given in the vernacular press this morning to reports of tomorrow's supposed meeting at which the groundwork for a fundamental readjustment of Anglo-Japanese relations was expected to be laid.

The spokesman again denied reports of an exchange of goodwill messages between Gen. Ugaki and Lord Halifax, the British Foreign Secretary.—Domei.

Select Committee Report Recommitted

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

London, July 20.

The House of Commons last evening passed, without division, a Liberal amendment to a Labour motion recommiting the report of the Committee of Privileges, on account of a subsequent disclosure of new information in connection with the Sandys case, in which Mr. Douglas Sandys is alleged to have committed a breach of privilege.

The Liberal amendment was in the following terms:

"The House, while reaffirming that the summons sent to the honourable member for Norwood was, in the circumstances, a breach of the privilege of the House, instructs the Select Committee on the Official Secrets Act to inquire into and report on the circumstances in which the summons was issued."

The Select Committee met again yesterday and, it is understood, so far as its original terms of reference went, the Committee finished taking evidence.—Reuter.

Franco-British Co-operation For Peace Welcomed

Paris and London Press Emphasize Significance Of Royal Visit; Berlin Impressed; Italy Silent

Paris, July 20.

THE entire press this morning was devoted to the great reception given to the British sovereigns upon their arrival here yesterday, while all the papers stressed the importance and significance of the speeches made by King George and President Albert Lebrun at the state banquet last night.

"L'Œuvre" declared that the immense cheering which greeted the King and Queen would leave no doubt in their minds that in face of foreign threats, France is united. M. Leon Blum, the Socialist leader, writing in his paper "Le Populaire," stated that the "Franco-British entente is essentially one of peace. It aims primarily at preserving peace not only for Great Britain and France, but for Europe and the whole world."

"The addresses delivered at the Palais de L'Elysee cannot have caused any surprise since the policy defined in them has always been placed in the limelight," comments "Le Jour." "Their interest lies in the happy choice of formulae which on the one hand stressed the solidarity of both nations and on the other hand outlined the contribution which their co-operation may bring for the triumph of concord in the world."

"Le Petit Parisien" stressed that the royal visit is not a vain demonstration which will be forgotten in time, nor is it an arrogant threat to any other country. It is a public testimony clearly made to the world of a close, solid, and indestructible friendship which the memory of dangers gone through in common has sealed."

"Le Figaro" declared that "the visit confirms not only the entente between the two countries which cannot be any closer but their equal determination to make it indestructible." —Havas.

British Press Comments

London, July 20.

Lengthy comments were devoted in the press here this morning to the Royal visit to Paris, and to Franco-British friendship.

"The friendship between the two countries developed out of an attachment to the same democratic ideals making possible a collaboration to the same ends," the "Daily Telegraph" stated. "The very nature of the mutual understanding forbids the exclusion of other friendships for it desires to find a way to peace and economic well-being for all nations."

"The visit marks the celebration of a century and a quarter of peace between the two countries," the "Daily Express" declared. "During that time relations have steadily improved and the understanding has been deepened. It is a sort of friendship that endures through the ages."

An interesting note appeared in the "Daily Herald" this morning written by the Paris correspondent of the paper who was standing on top of the Arc de Triomphe during yesterday's procession.

"The correspondent of an American broadcasting company who was describing the procession for American listeners turned to me and said: 'Who could do justice to such a sight? Only a poet whose words would flow in one long river of beauty'."—Havas.

German Opinion Impressed

Berlin, July 20.

The press here this morning stressed the importance of the toasts exchanged in Paris yesterday by King George and President Lebrun.

The "Berliner Boersen Zeitung" considers that the visit proves that the friendship between the two countries is real, durable, and efficient.

The "Voelkischer Beobachter," official organ of the National-Socialist Party, stated that the enthusiasm with which France received the British Sovereigns is also a sentiment of security which the entente between the two countries so long desired and today fully achieved gives to the French people.

"We consider however that this sentiment of security arises from an unjustified anxiety for no foreign enemy is threatening France," the paper added.—Havas.

Italy Ignores Royal Visit

Rome, July 20.

The Italian press is, for the most part, ignoring the British Royal visit to Paris.

The semi-official Stefani News Agency dispenses with the subject in a 12-line report, but the Vatican organ "Osservatore Romano" carries a longer account.

The British colony here recall that last year's Coronation was boycotted in a similar manner.—Reuter.

Chinese Comment

Hankow, July 20.

"The visit of the British King and Queen to Paris will not only strengthen Anglo-French friendship, but is also likely to make a new contribution to world peace," states the "Sao Tang Pao," organ of the Chinese Army, in a leading article today.

From a political and economic viewpoint, the paper goes on to say, Anglo-French co-operation will stabilize the European situation. Before this can happen, however, the journal continues, peace must be established in the Far East.

"It is clear that Japan wants to take over British and French interests in the Far East for a long time," it declares.

"The recent Hainan Island case was just a sounding of British and French policy by the Japanese. We hope that the British King in France will not only pay attention to European peace, but also to British and French interests in the Far East, and to world collective security, with particular reference to the Far Eastern situation."—Reuter.

Refugees for Land Reclamation

Scheme to Ease Congestion In Shanghai Advocated By Charitable Bodies

A plan to send local Chinese refugees or at least a portion of them to interior provinces for land reclamation work, so as to enable the refugees to support themselves and alleviate the overcrowding in the foreign-controlled areas of Shanghai, is again under consideration by local charitable organizations, it was reported yesterday.

Between 500 and 600 refugees in Shanghai were sent some time ago to the Kee Hsui district, Kiangsi province, for land reclamation. According to messages from that province, the result was very satisfactory, all the refugees being able to support themselves.

The association responsible for the despatch of refugees was later forced to drop the plan, however, for lack of necessary funds for the refugees' transportation.

With the hostilities continuing along the Yangtze Valley and refugees arriving daily in Shanghai, the charitable organizations deem it advisable and urgent to revive the plan.

This time the organizations propose to send the refugees to provinces other than Kiangsi, such as Yunnan and Szechuen, which are rich in natural resources and where land for reclamation purposes can be easily obtained, the reports said.

South China Ports Are Suspected of Cholera

Passengers from Swatow, Pakhoi, Hoihow Inspected

Swatow, Pakhoi, and Hoihow have been declared cholera-infected ports by the Hongkong health authorities, it was reported yesterday. All ships from these ports are not allowed to come alongside the Hongkong wharves until they have been inspected by health officers.

Particular attention is being paid to the vessels from Swatow, all the passengers being required to be inoculated before landing. Should a single passenger on any of the vessels from Swatow be found to have contracted cholera, the whole body of passengers on this ship will be confined to the vessel for five days, except first or second class passengers who may land if they can secure the health authorities' permission, according to these reports.

Y.1,000,000,000 Worth Of Raw Materials

Bank of Japan Authorities Issue Statement

Tokyo, July 20.

The newly-established Y.300,000,000 Foreign Exchange Revolving Fund provides funds for the importation of Y.1,000,000,000 worth of raw materials from abroad annually, according to a statement made today by the Bank of Japan authorities.

The Bank authorities claim that the fund, if revolved three times in a year, will be ample for financing this amount of imports.

A more conservative view, however, is expressed by experts of the exchange banks who state that the fund will be revolved only twice in a year. The new fund, it is understood, is also available to foreign as well as Japanese banks, in the case of financing imports of raw materials for the manufacturing of exports.—Reuter.

Non-Intervention Plan Being Pressed

Withdrawal Scheme to Be Submitted to Factions

London, July 20.

Circles closely connected with the Non-Intervention Committee declared this morning that Mr. Francis Hemming, Secretary of the Committee entrusted with the application of the plan for the withdrawal of foreign volunteers from Spain, will leave for Barcelona and Burgos shortly to answer verbally any questions or objections raised by either of the Spanish factions before being requested to accept the scheme.

Competent circles here believe that this move will save time as it will replace exchanges of notes, and they hope that Mr. Hemming will bring back both parties' acceptance to the plan.—Havas.

Japanese Prepare to Go Back to Hankow

Former Residents Opening Office Here

With prospects of an early return to Hankow, which was evacuated by Japanese last August, the Hankow Japanese Residents' Corporation opened an office in Shanghai yesterday, the "Shanghai Mainichi" reported.

The Corporation formerly operated a temporary office in Tokyo to maintain contact with its members and to assist rehabilitation efforts among refugees from the Yangtze port.

U.S. Flier's Plane Impounded

Licence Cancelled to Prevent Round-World Flight Attempt

Washington, July 18.

The Department of Commerce's Bureau of Aviation today cancelled the experimental licence of Mr. Douglas Corrigan to prevent his attempting a westward flight across the Atlantic.

The Assistant Secretary of Commerce, Mr. J. M. Johnson, said punishment of the Irish "will-o-the-wisp" flier would involve suspension of his pilot's certificate for thirty to sixty days.—United Press.

Plane Impounded, Released

Dublin, July 19.

Irish customs officials today detained Mr. Douglas Corrigan's plane as the result of the United States Department of Commerce's action in cancelling his licence. Later his plane was returned to him on his promising not to attempt the return flight to New York.

Mr. Corrigan said he would endeavour to obtain the plane's release for flying to London within the next few days. After that, he said, he desires to fly to Glasgow and put his plane on exhibition at the British Empire Exhibition.

During the day he visited Government buildings and gave the Premier, Mr. Eamon de Valera, a first-hand account of his flight. He woke up at 9 o'clock this morning and read cablegrams from all over the world congratulating him on his unusual manner of skipping unawares across the Atlantic ocean. Among the cables was one from Mr. Henry Ford.

Meantime Mr. Corrigan's casual comment that his plane was "good enough to fly around the world" led some to believe that he had the idea of a globe-girdling flight.

The Hal Roach movie studio of Hollywood has cabled Mr. Corrigan an offer of a film test and a contract if the test were successful.

A movement was under way in Los Angeles to finance Mr. Corrigan in a globe-girdling flight. The money would be raised by popular subscription.

It was suspected in San Diego that Mr. Corrigan had intentions to fly round the world before he left there when it was recalled that he had a map of Russia in his plane shortly before hopping off for New York.—United Press.

Many Chinese Ignorant Of the War

Hongkong Prison Doctor Tells Experiences

Hongkong, July 20.

Called as a witness in a recent murder trial, Doctor George Ingram Shaw, Medical Officer to Hongkong Prisons, who testified as to the mentality of a certain prisoner, made the startling revelation that quite a large percentage of Chinese in Hongkong have not heard that China is fighting Japan.

Questioned later by the United Press, Dr. Shaw said: "Hundreds of prisoners have passed through my hands daily during the past twelve months. Incredible as it may seem, I can safely state that 10 per cent. of newly-entered Chinese prisoners do not know that their country is at war.

"Large numbers assert that they have never heard of Chiang Kai-shek, although the majority claim knowledge of Sun Yat-sen.

"The largest majority have no inkling whatsoever of the war with Japan, and some have not even heard of a country called Japan.

"These people are in no way mentally defective, they consist mainly of the coolie and peasant classes long resident in Hongkong and southern Kwangtung."—United Press.

Palestine Outrages Take Heavy Toll

77 Killed And 247 Wounded In Fortnight

London, July 20.

During the fortnight ended yesterday, 77 persons were killed and 247 wounded in Palestine as a result of outrages.

In addition to 52 cases of sniping, the outrages included bomb throwing, armed robberies, kidnapping and arson, and numerous acts of sabotage against property.

This information was given in the House of Commons today by Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, the Colonial Secretary.—Reuter.

Japanese Clean Up Restaurants

Out of 610 Japanese restaurants, cafés and kindred establishments inspected by the Japanese Consular Police from July 2 to 15, 159 produced goods unfit for human consumption, the "Shanghai Nippo" reported last night. Confiscated goods amounted to 244 items, the daily said.

The consular police are seeking the co-operation of the Japanese Residents' Corporation and other civic bodies in this campaign, the paper added.

The envoy, on his way home, conferred in Hongkong with Herr Oskar Trautmann, outgoing German Ambassador to China. The German advisers in Hankow were recalled by the Reich soon after this meeting.—Domei.

S. W. China Industries To Be Developed

Company to Exploit Metal Resources Formed

Hongkong, July 20.

The increasing significance of industries in south-western China as the result of the Sino-Japanese hostilities has led Chinese economic circles to take measures for the development of this region.

It is reported here today that a group of important Chinese financiers have in this connection formed the South Chinese Industrial Society for promoting and improving industries in Kwangsi, Kweichow, Yunnan and Szechuen. Particular attention will be paid to the mineral deposits in Kwangsi province.—Trans-Ocean.

King George Honours French War Dead

ple could look on easily enough in between and over the cars and tanks lining the pavement.

Along the whole route, all houses were practically hidden behind a fluttering wall of British and French flags. The Place de l'Etoile was surrounded by thirteen square columns, from which hung in array more than 800 British and French standards. The Champs Elysees was entirely covered with the colours of the two allies. Long banderoles hung from the roofs of the buildings, almost touching the pavement. Most buildings, stores, cinemas and private houses bore streamers with incriptions, "Welcome to Their Majesties" and "Long Live the King and Queen."

Deputies Join in Cheering

After crossing the Place de la Concorde, the procession passed over the bridge spanning the Seine and then paraded before the House of Deputies, where the Parliamentarians were massed on the steps before the imposing edifice. The usually-staid politicians, too, gave way to the wave of surpassing gaiety over-running Paris, and they cheered the sovereigns as their cars slowly passed by.

Finally, the procession reached the Quai d'Orsay at 5.20 o'clock, and the French Foreign Minister, M. Georges Bonnet, and Madame Bonnet greeted the royal guests. As soon as the King entered the Palace, his personal banner was hoisted above the roof, in accordance with ceremonial custom at Windsor.

President Lebrun then rode back to the Palais de l'Elysee, while M. Bonnet escorted the visitors to their apartments. Then, at 5.45 p.m., the sovereigns motored over to the Elysee Palace to visit the President.

Her Majesty Decorated

Queen Elizabeth was decorated with the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour by President Lebrun in the evening at the Palais de l'Elysee where a gala reception was held after 6.15 p.m.

Returning his honour, King George awarded the Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath to the President. The Grand Cross of the Legion of Honour was then bestowed upon Sir Eric Phipps, British Ambassador to France.

In the course of the brilliant reception at the Presidential home, the sovereigns expressed their gratitude for the hearty welcome given them by Paris, the gay capital of France.

King George then granted an audience to the diplomatic corps here, and later the sovereigns returned to the Quai d'Orsay to rest before returning to the Palais de l'Elysee, for dinner.

The King donned the uniform of a field Marshal for this occasion and was greeted at the threshold to the palace by the President. Then, as the King led in Madame Lebrun, the President escorted the Queen into the banquet hall.

Distinguished Assembly

Notable among the host of other prominent people present at the reception, were M. Jules Jeanneney, President of the Senate; Madame Edouard Herriot, wife of the President of the Chamber, and Madame Daladier, wife of the Premier. Members of the Cabinet and of the diplomatic corps made up the rest of the guest list.

Throughout the dinner, the Band of the Republican Guard played French classical and modern music.

The dinner ended at 10 o'clock in the evening and the King and President Lebrun withdrew to the Officers' Lounge, where the King talked with various French personalities, including M. Jeanneney and M. Herriot. The Ministers, M. Alexandre Millerand, former President of the Republic, and Messieurs Caillaux, Blum and Flandin, former Prime Ministers.

Remarkable Illuminations

Brief addresses emphasizing the friendship and complete solidarity of the two democracies, Great Britain and France, and their aims to defend peace, were delivered in the course of the reception. At its conclusion and after thanking President Lebrun, King George and Queen Elizabeth left the Palais de l'Elysee half an hour after midnight to return to their apartments in the Quai d'Orsay where Their Majesties went out to the balony to view the illuminated Place de la Concorde and the Grand Palais and the "Water Theatre," composed of luminous changing-colour fountains on the River Seine.

After gazing over the imposing sight offered by Paris en fete, Their Majesties withdrew for the night.

Armistice Night Recalled

Throughout Paris, meanwhile, until a late hour, a spirit of festivity recalling the atmosphere of Armistice night in 1918, gave the capital an aspect of joyful animation. The Champs Elysees districts were especially festive in appearance, being entirely beflagged and illuminated.

Nine powerful projectors brightened the skies, while other floodlights, concealed under trees in the main thoroughfares, cast a brilliant glow on buildings, monuments and fountains. In the Champs Elysees, a huge crowd of cheerful Parisians gathered to admire the fireworks set off on the Eiffel Tower and to cheer the royal visitors when Their Majesties were returning to their quarters from the Palais de l'Elysee.

Within several kilometres of the Champs Elysees, traffic could hardly be kept on the move. All buses and most cars were decorated with the British and French colours, while in cruising taxis, enthusiastic youths stood up, waved flags and cried out, "Vive le Roi, Vive la Reine" "Vive la France" and "Vive la Paix."

Peace Seems Assumed

People in the streets, jostling each other, started up conversations about the brilliance and the significance of this auspicious occasion. All realize the dangers of the present time and the existing perils to European peace but many voice the opinion that peace would be firmly ensured if all could only see the scenes of enthusiasm in Paris today.

"Never have the two countries been so closely united," commented a Parisian after he had read the published speeches of the King and the President. To mark the occasion, the British and French national anthems were sung in the streets, not altogether correctly but wholeheartedly.

When the British sovereigns returned from the reception at the Presidential palace to their apartments in the Quai d'Orsay, the dense throng crowding the road at this point, broke out into frenzied cheering.

Clemenceau Statue Floodlit

On the Champs Elysees, the statue of Georges Clemenceau, the "Tiger" of the world war period, now a symbol of the Entente Cordiale, is floodlit by three projectors. Its base is covered with a tricoloured cloth. The powerful lights casting their beams on the statue are so arranged that they brighten the body of the sculptural work, but leave the face in shadow.

Around the Arc de Triomphe, clusters of lights reveal Union Jacks hanging partly in the shade, fluttering and seeming to float without support. —Havas.

British Shipping Rights in China

Position Clarified in Commons; Situation is Not Same as in Spain

London, July 20.

Mr. Geoffrey Mander, (Opposition Liberal member for East Wolverhampton, asked in the House of Commons yesterday what steps were being taken to protect British and Dominions shipping in the Far East from deliberate attacks by aircraft.

Replying, Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, said that the Government had not found it necessary, since December, to take special steps in this regard.

There had been no subsequent air attacks on British shipping in China, he declared.

If, as he trusted would not be the case, any further attack were to occur His Majesty's ships would take such action as was practicable.

The position at present, Mr. Butler pointed out, was for British shipping to communicate with the Japanese authorities when any precautions appeared desirable.

Mr. Mander then asked if the position was precisely the same in the Far East as in Spain.

No, replied Mr. Butler, because in the Far East British ships had certain treaty rights in China's ports and territorial waters.—Reuter.

Japan's Good Intentions

London, July 20.

In the House of Commons today the Prime Minister, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, was asked by Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, Conservative member for the Kidderminster division of Worcestershire, whether his attention had been drawn to an official pronouncement by Prince Konoye, the Japanese Premier, that Great Britain was apparently sceptical of Japanese good intentions in regard to British interests in China.

He was also asked whether he would instruct Sir Robert Craigie, the British Ambassador in Tokyo, to inform Prince Konoye personally that British opinion might be considerably modified if Britain received satisfactory replies to the representations she had made on various matters of protest.

Mr. Chamberlain, in reply, said he had no doubt that Sir Robert Craigie had frequently mentioned this point in discussions with the Japanese Foreign Minister.

In regard to the suggestion that the British Ambassador should speak personally in this sense to Prince Konoye, the Prine Minister asserted that Lord Halifax, the Foreign Secretary had no doubt that the Japanese Premier must be already aware of the position from reports supplied to him by his Foreign Minister.—Reuter.

Berlin Bourse Panic In Industrials

Liquidation for Paying Taxes; Jews Cashing In

Berlin, July 20.

A panic wave characterized the stock exchange here during the past week, the average decline being of 5.25 per cent.

Most hard hit were industrial stocks which led the decline.

The "Essener Nazional Zeitung" laid the responsibility for the decline to "Jewish manœuvres" and complained of the "defeatist character which appeared on the Exchange."

The paper stressed that this was the first time in several years that the averages for steel stocks went below Rm. 100.

The reasons for the panic were attributed to the difficult financial position of several German industrial concerns which need money badly to pay their taxes.

Jews are liquidating most of their holdings for fear of the imminent confiscation of their properties.—Havas.

Japanese War Minister Sees Emperor

Answers Questions on New Soviet-Manchu Tension

Tokyo, July 20.

Lieut.-Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, Minister of War, spent two hours and 15 minutes in the Imperial Palace this afternoon as he was received in audience by the Emperor and subsequently conferred with Lieut.-Gen. Okile Usami, aide-de-camp to the Emperor, regarding the prevailing tension on the Soviet-Manchoukuo border.

It was understood that after making a report on matters under his jurisdiction to His Majesty, Lieut.-Gen. Itagaki answered numerous questions put to him by the monarch.

He later went into conference with Lieut.-Gen. Usami.—Domei.

ber of junks on the Han River, while the other bombs struck some wooden huts inhabited by the poorest section of the population, starting numerous fires. The dry timber of the huts was an easy prey to the flames which, fanned by a strong wind, spread rapidly to adjacent buildings.

Many Bombs on Wuchang

The largest number of bombs were, however, dropped over Wuchang, the objective of the raiders here obviously being the Chinese military headquarters near the railway line at the boundary of the city. Since access to this part of the city is strictly forbidden, it is impossible to state with certainty the extent of damage caused by the bombing. It appears, however, that the headquarters buildings were not directly hit by any bombs.

The measures taken by the Chinese air defence organization during the bombing proved more or less ineffective. Although Chinese anti-aircraft batteries opened fire on the Japanese planes when the latter passed over the centre of the city, they failed to score any hits. It is officially stated, however, that three Japanese planes were shot down outside the city. Chinese fliers who went up to repel the raiders over the city also failed to bring down any of the Japanese bombers.—Trans-Ocean.

Chinese Surrender to Japanese

Ordered to Fight Against Guerillas

Shihchachwang, July 20.

Leading 10,000 Chinese soldiers, Gen. Chao Cheng-shan surrendered to Japanese troops at Hweihsien, about 90 kilometres north of Chengchow in northern Honan, on July 18, according to Japanese reports received here today.

The Chinese were equipped with 80 machine-guns and 12 trench-mortars. Immediately after his capitulation Gen. Chao was ordered by Japanese troops to attack; guerilla units at Chihsien, 83 kilometres-north-east of Chengchow.

The soldiers left Hweihsien for Chihsien yesterday under the command of Gen. Chao carrying five-barred and Rising Sun flags, the reports said.—Domei.

Japanese Attempt on Namoa Fails

Warships Bombard Island Off Swatow

Hongkong, July 20.

A new attempt by the Japanese to recapture the strategically important island of Namoa near Swatow has so far been unsuccessful, according to reports available here today.

Fifteen Japanese warships heavily shelled the island yesterday. In the afternoon the Japanese then attempted to land troops but were repulsed. The bombardment of the island, which has caused no major damage, according to Chinese reports, was continued last night as indicated by the sound of guns to be heard here from that direction.

It is believed that the Japanese, in spite of their recent failure, have not abandoned hope of recapturing the island which the Chinese had reoccupied by a surprise attack.

According to reports from Canton, a Japanese submarine flotilla has been sighted in the waters near Hainan.—Trans-Ocean.

Soviet Protest to Gaimusho

Demonstration Outside Tokyo Embassy Brings Demarche

Tokyo, July 20.

The Soviet Embassy, it is learned, has protested to the Foreign Office regarding the demonstration yesterday in which members of the Kenkokukai, an ultra-nationalistic organization, threw handbills into the Embassy offices, urging the "punishment of Red Russia."

The Soviet Embassy contends that the police could have prevented the demonstration.

Seven members of the organization appeared at the Soviet Embassy and asked to interview the Chargé d'Affaires, as they wanted to protest against the Soviet's alleged violation of the Manchoukuo frontier. When their request was refused, the men tried to stage a sit-down strike outside the Embassy and threw the handbills into the Embassy offices. They were subsequently arrested and, after a reprimand, released with a warning not to repeat the offence. —Reuter.

Moscow Issues Denial

Moscow, July 19.

Japanese reports according to which Marshal Vasilii Bluecher, Commander-in-Chief of the Soviet Far Eastern Army, has been recalled to Moscow and relieved of his functions, are emphatically denied here today by Tass, official news agency.

Marshal Bluecher was alleged to have been recalled for his failure to stop General Lushkov, reportedly captured in Manchoukuo recently from escaping across the Soviet frontier. General Lushkov was supposed to have possessed important military secrets which he gave to the Japanese, according to Nipponese despatches.—Havas.

Kiukiang Foreigners Still Safe

Japanese Bomb South Bank Of Yangtze River

Hankow, July 20.

Japanese aircraft yesterday carried out bombing and reconnaissance flights along the south bank of the Yangtze near Kiukiang, according to reports reaching here from that area.

Their objective appeared to be the district three to five miles east of Kiukiang.

Japanese warships are said still to be operating in the North Oliphant Channel, between Kiukiang and Hukow, but they did not take part in yesterday's bombardment of the Yangtze, it is learned.

The foreign community in Kiukiang remains safe and well aboard the Butterfield & Swire ss. Wenchow, with the British gunboat Cockchafer (625 tons), and the U.S.S. Monocacy standing by.—Reuter.

SHE DREADED GOING UPSTAIRS

Woman's Fear of Rheumatic Pains

One of the many troubles that afflict rheumatic sufferers is the difficulty of getting up and down stairs. Such was the case with this woman, before she started taking Kruschen, but now she finds it no trouble. Read what she says:—

"I have been taking Kruschen now for over 12 months, a half-teaspoonful in hot water first thing in the morning, and I feel a new woman. I had very painful rheumatism in my knees and back and also my head was getting very bad. I used to dread walking upstairs, now I am very thankful to say it is no trouble at all and I scarcely have any pains. I feel better in health than I have done for years."—(Mrs.) G.M.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are effective solvents of uric acid. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the painful crystals, then convert them into a harmless solution. Other ingredients of these Salts have a stimulating effect upon the kidneys, and assist them to expel the dissolved uratic needles through the natural channel.—Advt.

Potsdam Arrives From Japan

German Liner Sailing on Friday; Jean Laborde Due Tomorrow

The Norddeutscher Lloyd express liner Potsdam arrived in port yesterday morning from Japan, on her way through to Europe, tying up at the Shanghai & Hongkew Wharf Company's Hongkew Wharf at about 7 o'clock. The Potsdam will be remaining in port until noon on Friday, when she will be sailing for Genoa, Southampton, Rotterdam and Bremen, with calls at Hongkong, Manila, Southampton, Penang, Belawan and Colombo en route.

Passengers have the choice of boarding the Potsdam by tender or of going on board from the wharf. Those travelling by tender are reminded that the Scot 1 will be leaving the Customs Jetty at 10 a.m. sharp on Friday, while those preferring to drive down the wharf have until 10.30 a.m. to go on board.

The local agents draw special attention to the fact that no heavy baggage can be accepted on the embarkation tender; baggage of all sizes, however, can be delivered to the godown of G. E. Marden & Co. at the Race Course Market, situated near the corner of Myburgh and Burkill Roads

According to present expectations, the P. & O. ss. Rawalpindi will be sailing for Home ports on Tuesday, August 2, probably from buoys in the lower part of the harbour. She will be sailing for Malta, Marseilles, Gibraltar and London, via Colombo, Bombay, Aden and Port Said.

The Jean Laborde

The Messageries Maritimes mv. Jean Laborde is due to arrive from Kobe at about 6 o'clock tomorrow morning, when she will be tying up alongside the Shanghai & Hongkew Wharf Co.'s Hongkew Wharf. Incoming passengers may be expected at the Customs Jetty at about 6.30 a.m.

The Jean Laborde sails for Marseilles, via the usual ports, on Saturday morning, leaving the same wharf at about 11.30 o'clock. Heavy baggage, the company announces, should be registered at the Messageries Maritimes baggage department, 8 Quai de France, between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. tomorrow (Friday).

Those planning an out of the usual run for their trip home will be interested in next Tuesday's sailing of the K.P.M. mv. Tegelberg, which leaves Holt's Wharf, Pootung, that day for Rodriguez, Mauritius, Tamatave, Lourenco Marques, Durban, East London, Port Elizabeth, Mossel Bay and Capetown "via ports." The local agents are the Java-China-Japan Line.

According to the latest arrangements, the Java-China-Japan Line ss. Tjisalak will be sailing south not today, but tomorrow. The tender will leave the Customs Jetty at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for the ship, which is lying at Holt's Wharf, Pootung.

The Tjisalak is sailing for Amoy, Hongkong and the usual Java ports, with both passengers and cargo.

German "Mobilization" Of Property Decreed

Private Resources May be Conscripted for Army

Berlin, July 19.

The German Government issued a decree today permitting the Reich to conscript private resources for military purposes.

This decree is tantamount to a virtual mobilization of national resources. It was designed to strengthen the German war machine in order to satisfy the army's needs during marches and manœuvres.—United Press.

Germans Perfect Super-Microscope for Use in Medical Research

Linear Magnifications, Formerly Maximum at 2,000, Now Brought Up to 30,000 by New Achievement

Berlin, July 20.

After six years of arduous and unremitting research, two German scientists, Dr. Ernst Ruska and Dr. E. von Borris, who have been working at the laboratory for electronic optics of the Siemens and Halske A. G. of Berlin and the university medical clinic of the Charite at Berlin, have succeeded in perfecting an instrument known as the ultra-ultra or electronic microscope.

By enabling linear magnifications of 30,000 to be reached by comparison with a maximum of only 2,000 attainable with the most refined optical microscope known to modern science, this new instrument will enable medical and physical science to explore worlds of infinite minuteness, which had up to now been far beyond the range of human investigation. Scientifically expressed this hitherto impenetrable region is that in size between the smallest wave length of light and the dimensions of a molecule.

The greatness of this achievement is readily understood when it is considered that while 250 years of effort were needed to perfect the optical microscope and attain a maximum linear magnification of 2,000, only six years were needed to reach a linear magnification of 30,000 with the electronic microscope.

Value in Medical Research

The value of the accomplishment will at first be chiefly in medical research, which for decades has been baffled by the inability to discover, identify and isolate the bacteria causing certain epidemics and deadly diseases, among which were measles influenza and infantile paralysis. It was finally proved, as had been always supposed, that these diseases were actually caused by bacteria but these latter were too small to be seen with microscopes with linear magnification of only up to 2,000. The electronic microscope, however, will not only reveal these ultra-bacteria to the eye but will even bring within range of vision all details of cell life including the structural nature of the cell nuclei and chromosomes, thereby enabling the laws of heredity to be studied more closely, while colloidal chemistry will now yield up many more of its most puzzling secrets.

Seeing the Dysentery "Bug"

The inventors have already succeeded in obtaining a magnification of the hitherto invisible dysentery bacillus up to four to five centimetres, it being discovered that this bacillus has two kinds, one virulent and the other harmless.

What the electronic microscope might ultimately prove to do in the hands of modern scientists is still unpredictable, but there is no exaggeration in asserting that it will open up an entirely new era in all sciences working with microscopes, as for instance atomic chemistry and the physics of the ultimate structure of matter.

The principle by which these results were achieved is the use of cathode rays in the place of light rays with an optical microscope. But whereas with the latter magnification is produced by the use of glass or fluorite lenses to deviate the rays of light, in the electronic microscope the cathode rays are deviated by use of electromagnetic collars, the whole being in a vacuum.

As in dealing with objects of such infinite smallness the adjustments of the instrument must be almost incredibly exact, this new tool of science is from the mere point of instrument-making, a triumph of technical achievement.—Trans-Ocean.

Heavy Rains Affect Local Parks

Luxuriant Plant Growth, But Species Die

The heavy rain during June had a serious effect on local parks and public spaces, according to the report of the Superintendent who describes his department's work during the month.

He writes: The weather during June was exceptionally wet, a total of 16.80 inches of rain being recorded on 18 days as compared with 3.84 inches on 11 days during the corresponding month last year.

The excessive rainfall caused several species of trees and plants to make luxuriant growth chief among these being Cypressus, Pines, Crotons, Eucalyptus and Poinsettias Aerial roots grew on trees of the Salix family owing to the continual moist state of the atmosphere while many shrubs including—Jasminum, Syringa, Forsythia, Exochorda, Pittosporum and Kerria died owing to the waterlogged soil conditions.

The total number of visitors to the various municipal parks and children's gardens during the month was 168,578.

Concession Cholera

From the outbreak of cholera in Shanghai up to July 16, a total of 625 cases of cholera have been reported in the Chinese population of the French Concession, and of these 78 deaths occurred. No new cases have been reported in the foreign population, the "North-China Daily News" was informed yesterday.

The average number of cholera cases is 28 a day, the percentage of cases bacteriologically confirmed being 38 per cent; the mortality rate is 12 per cent. With regard to the anti-cholera inoculations, this figure has now reached 1,336,525 inoculations.

Mark Case Adjourned

The hearing of an action for the foreclosure or sale of a mortgage made between the China Realty Trust Co., Ltd. and Mrs. Myra Louise Mark was adjourned sine die by Judge Sir Allan Mossop in H. M. Supreme Court yesterday. Plaintiffs were represented by Mr. K. E. Newman, who applied for the adjournment and told the Court he understood that instructions to defend the case were only received by Mr. J. E. Badeley a day or two before the case was due to come up for a hearing, and he was therefore asking for an adjournment. This was granted by the Court.

The raid was carried out at 1 a.m. yesterday, the police party being accompanied by the Japanese Consular Police. The Korean, Chang Chi-feng, and the Japanese, Takashi Nozaka, were handed over to the Japanese authorities, while the two Chinese, Chiang Yu-tien, 33-year old and the girl, Wong Ah-li, 19-year old, were remanded by the First Special District Court until next week.

The men were suspected to be involved in the smuggling of opium to Kiangsu-Anhwei border. The Chinese was said to be vice-chairman of the Chuchow Citizens' Association in Anhwei, while the Korean and the Japanese were said to be connected with the Japanese military authorities in north Anhwei.

Chinese Woman Shot Accidentally

Japanese Sentry Opens Fire As Warning to Looters

A Chinese woman was accidentally wounded in the chest in Hwakee Road at about 10.15 a.m. yesterday, when a Japanese sentry fired a shot to frighten a group of Chinese believed to be looters.

The sentry was on duty at a transportation depot in Yuan Chang Road, when his attention was attracted to the movements of a small group of Chinese in alleyways off the street. Believed to be looters, they were chased by the sentry. As the latter failed to overtake them, he opened fire to frighten the Chinese. The bullet struck a Chinese woman, however.

The woman was conveyed to hospital, where her condition was reported not to be serious.

St. Luke's Hospital Annual Report

Past Year One of Worry, Financial Difficulty; "Storm" Now Weathered

"That we have weathered the storm and now find ourselves in a position to more than double our services for the year before us is very largely due to the generosity of our contributors," writes Mr. J. M. Wilson, Superintendant of St. Luke's Hospital for China, in the annual report for 1937, which has just been issued. The demand for hospitalization is still on the increase, he points out, and there is a very great need for funds and supplies to keep going at the present rate.

The report is an interesting and illuminating book-let of 70 pages or so, illustrated with photographs of the damage done to the old hospital north of the creek and of the various buildings occupied since, including a novel photograph of a ward in the Cathedral Girl's School.

The first half of the year 1937 was normal, work being carried on in the Hongkew building in the customary manner. In August, however, the local hostilities made a hurried evacuation of patients and staff (numbering about 250 people in all) under conditions amounting to active warfare immediately necessary. An idea of the immensity of the task may be seen in the fact that one hundred lorry loads of equipment were taken out of the hospital, besides patients and staff.

The hospital first moved to St. John's University, but after two weeks, on the advice of the military authorities, a move was made to the Cathedral Girls School, Avenue Haig. Here St. Luke's Hospital remained for about three months, housing about 100 patients and staff in the school buildings. Lack of space reduced the number of patients the hospital could serve during a period when the hospitalization demand was enormous; a large section of the staff, accordingly, served in other hospitals during this period.

Salaries Cut

Because of finances, salaries of the staff were cut from 5 to 30 per cent. At one time, it looked as though the hospital would only be able to last for about a month or six weeks more, as nearly all the patients were without funds while the price of food, coal, drugs and other supplies was going up by leaps and bounds. The American Red Cross came to the rescue with a gift of $15,000 local currency, and other friends helped to keep the hospital going.

In December, the hospital rented the Cathedral Boys School and Church House building in Kiukiang Road, accommodating 130 patients, while another 250 patients were soon afterwards accommodated in the large buildings and grounds of the Academia Sinica, the St. Luke's hospital itself, for the sake of better organization, being divided into two. At present, both hospitals are operating at what might be termed "full pressure," and have been forced to turn away patients daily, because of lack of space. The 1938 statistics, it is expected, will more than double the number of patients served in any one year previous.

New Japanese Press Officer Arrives

Col. Hamada Will Succeed Col. Kimura

Colonel Hitoshi Hamada arrived here on Tuesday afternoon aboard the Nagasaki Maru to succeed Col. Matsujiro Kimura as director of the Press Bureau of the Japanese Expeditionary Force here.

Col. Kimura is leaving for Japan on Friday to assume a new post. Col. Kimura was host at a cocktail party at the Broadway Mansions yesterday evening when he introduced his successor to members of the local press.

Diseases Among the Japanese

Quarter of Cases Reported Since July 1

One-fourth of the diseases which affected Japanese residents during the six months and 15 days from January 1 to July 15 made their appearance in the first 15 days of July, the "Nippo" said yesterday.

According to figures compiled by Japanese consular police during the past six months and a half, typhoid fever led the list of diseases. Seventy Japanese were stricken by typhoid.

This was followed by dysentery, from which 22 Japanese suffered. Scarlet fever ranked third with 15 cases. Paratyphus cases numbered 7; cholera, 2; dyphtheria, 2; cerebral meningitis, 2; smallpox, 1, and eruptive typhus, 1, making a total of 122.

Typhoid fever also caused the most deaths, 6. Dysentery claimed three lives. Two Japanese died from cerebral meaningitis, one from scarlet fever and one from eruptive typhus, making the death toll 13.

Cricket Club Lose to C.S.F.

Japanese Trounced by Clube Lusitano; Full Programme of League Tennis Matches

CLUBE Lusitano fortified their position in the Shanghai Lawn Tennis League by scoring a third convincing victory over the Japanese Tennis Club on their own lawn yesterday in the fourth round by a score of 12-3. The Portuguese fought irresistibly and dropped only the fifth doubles.

One of the most interesting matches was witnessed in the first pairing when H. Collaco and "Didi" Costa, both of football fame, disposed of the ranking Japanese couple, Sudo and Kishii, by 6-4, 6-4, 5-7. Long rallies took place, especially in the third set, and as both sides excelled in this branch of play games went into long deuces before any decision could be reached. Smoother teamwork, however, enabled the homesters to take the first two sets and gain the upperhand.

The third doubles between the partnership of S. Collaco and C. Silva and the combination of Sakamoto and Tagami also produced close and keen competition. The Portuguese were rather fortunate to get the advantage in three 6-4 sets. Doi and Ura saved the visitors from a whitewashing by outscoring A. C. Sequeira and Remedios, 2-6, 7-5 and 7-5.

Travelling to the Shanghai Cricket Club, the Cercle Sportif Francais kept themselves in the championship race and scored a 10-5 victory. The success put the Frenchmen within three points of the leading Portuguese.

The Shanghai Recreation Club remained in the bottom of the senior category as they lost to the Country Club, 9-6, on the latter's courts.

Recs Lead 2nd Division

However, the second team of the Recs kept the top position in the junior section by overcoming the Swiss Club, 9-6, as visitors. Cercle Sportif Francais kept their standing as runners-up, despite being trimmed by the Waterworks, 8-7.

The Sokols met defeat at the hands of the Police team by a surprising score of 12-3 and fell from third place. The Germans also lost by a heavy score to Association Sportive Francaise, 13-2, at the winners' place while the Royal Army Service Corps, as hosts to the Cricket Club, nearly broke into the scoring column. They were defeated by several close decisions in the fifteen sets. The second team of Clube Lusitano, while visiting the Bramtoco Club, missed no chance to win, downing the tobacco merchants 11-4 and making it a perfect day so far as the Portuguese were concerned.

Meadowbrook Win Tyro Cup Game

Good But Onesided Polo; Du Rivau, Krikoriantz Outstanding

BY "THE CHASER"

Last night's Tyro Cup match was won by Meadowbrook—W. H. Allman, Turbyfill, Krikoriantz and Siemssen who triumphed over the Durhams (E)—Low, Norman, Lyster-Todd and Du Rivau (substitute for W. J. Keswick) in a good but rather one sided match, by seven goals to four. The Durhams were conceded one goal handicap which was not of much help.

Meadowbrook's greatest asset yesterday was their being mounted on far and away superior ponies which could, literally, run rings around their rather unfortunate opponents who were really poorly mounted. Du Rivau was well mounted with some of Keswick's ponies. Du Rivau played hard and well for the losers but could not get sufficient support from the others who tried hard enough, but could not get their ponies to do better than canter.

Durhams Outraced

He gave his forwards several opportunities but it was the same story all over again—they were outraced to the ball.

Meadowbrook played with understanding and were not really extended to their limit. They slackened a bit in the last chukker, and with due respect to the Durhams, allowed the Durhams to score twice.

Krikoriantz was hitting his usual long shots and was having a field day at shooting goals—scoring five. Allman scored two.

Meadowbrook attacked first and Turbyfill and Krikoriantz both missed. The Durhams suprisingly drew first blood through Norman, who scored all three goals for his side, when he tapped the ball through from a scrimmage.

Meadowbrook pressed but hit behind and Krikoriantz hit wide when they attacked again. Meadowbrook was unfortunate not to score when they pressed and Krikoriantz missed when the ball bounced.

Free Hit

Krikoriantz sliced the hit in and the Durhams fouled by standing on the ball. Krikoriantz took the sixty yard free hit and Du Rivau cleared, but scored a minute later. Meadowbrook pressed from the throw in and Krikoriantz missed an open goal. Allman scored when Du Rivau, attempting to clear, hit Siemssen's pony and left the ball at the goalmouth. Krikoriantz scored the third goal after a minute's play. Du Rivau fouled and cleared the free hit taken by Krikoriantz, who scored a short while later. Durhams attacked several times and Du Rivau gave the forwards several opportunities but they were beaten to the ball every time.

There was a lot of aimless hitting and field play before Meadowbrook fouled and Du Rivau, who took the penalty shot, hit wide. Krikoriantz took the hit out and carried the ball down the field by himself and was unlucky not to score—Du Rivau clearing a few feet from goal.

Krikoriantz scored towards the middle of the chukker and scored again when he took a free hit, given against Norman for crossing Allman. Allman scored early in the last chukker when he had the ball to himself. Du Rivau was excelling himself with his bustling efforts and paved the way for two goals which were scored by Norman. The Durhams were still at Meadowbrook's goal when the final bell rang.

Lawn Bowls Results in Championships

Kabbert Belts One Squarely

The Amateurs' young catcher, Kabbert, is seen connecting solidly in the baseball game at the Race Course against the Second Battalion which the Marines won by 7-4 last Saturday.

1st Bn. Overwhelm Headquarters

Lefty Orzech the Hero of City League Baseball Game at Race Course

What should have been a nip and tuck game in the City Baseball League yesterday afternoon at the Race Course diamond turned out to be a decisive victory in favour of the First Battalion against the Headquarters nine, who bowed in defeat for the first time this season by a surprising score of 8-0.

The victorious First Battalion upset their opponents mainly through the masterful performance of Lefty Orzech. The diminutive southpaw won his own game for not only did he hurl a deceptive ball but also batted in three runs with a double in the third inning and a single in the seventh. Besides these hits, he managed to make a third bingle out of his four trips to the plate. As to his battery work he gave away only a pair of bingles in the ninth sessions and allowed no rival to reach second base safely.

Almost equally commendable was the air-tight fielding of Lefty's teammates, who committed not a single error in a total of 27 put-outs and 8 assists. Leftfielder Ashley was especially brilliant in snagging four flies. One of these long flies came from the heavy bat of "Gus" Sonnenberg, the maker of two homers in the past Fourth of July classic. The ball scaled towards deep left-centre but Ashley chased after it like a horse and made a perfect catch to the excitement of the spectators.

Porter to the Showers

The hitherto invincible Headquarters started off with W. Porter, formerly a semi-professional moundsman who in last Sunday's game against the Amateurs pitched the "Orphans" out of a hole in the eigth inning as a relief pitcher. He did fairly well yesterday but had to go to the showers in the last third of the seventh frame and was charged with defeat. Houston took over the box work and finished the inning by forcing his batter to fly out. In the eight canto he whiffed three men in a row and made his colleagues regret not using him earlier.

Third Baseman Hyman led off for the Headquarters nine and drove a hot grounder past Shortstop Rad. However, Orzech immediately bore down and the lead-man was stranded at first.

In the opening canto, First Baseman King, after Sharples had grounded out, took a mighty swing at a pitched ball and shot it high into deep centre. Miles made a futile effort to pull the ball down and, as the spheroid bounced towards the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club, the hitter easily cantered home.

Orzech was the first man to face Porter in the second inning and reached first on a free ticket. Rad slugged a grounder to Childress at second but the latter made a wild throw to Shortstop Varconi in an attempt to put Orzech out and the runner easily came home for the second run.

Raking Drive

Two hits and one error accounted for three runs in the third round. King flied out to Williams at left field but Ashley found his range and singled to right. Olsen was given a free pass. Goush fanned for the second out. Orzech got his second turn at bat and made a raking drive along the first-base line into the right field area which was good for two bases, besides batting in Ashley. Caldwell flied to centre field with runners on third and second. But, showing tense excitement, Miles dropped the catch to send home both Olsen and Orzech.

Rightfielder Kelly found Lefty's deliveries for the second and final Headquarters hit in the fifth inning. The First also garnered one bingle in the sixth but could not score any further run until the seventh in which the winners turned three more shots into a same number of runs. During this barrage Sharples singled and was driven in by Ashley's bingle.

Olsen was found safe as Varconi's throw pulled First Baseman Girard off the bag. Goush grounded out to Hyman but here Orzech rose to the occasion once more with a sizzling single to left-field. Williams failed to make his peg to Sonnenberg good and both Ashley and Olsen scored, ending the day's work.

Interest Mounts in Friday's Battle

"Smiling" George is Sure He Can Outbox Shelaeff

A record rush for tickets for the first two days shows an unprecedented interest in the coming battle for the welterweight Championship of China, tomorrow night at the Canidrome Gardens. The centre of interest, of course, will be Andre Shelaeff. Shelaeff's two knockouts over the Orient Champion have been broadcast throughout the world and the last issue of the "Ring" has rated him as the most promising welter-weight.

The Auditorium has spared neither effort or expense in bringing the "boy wonder" back to the city which has given him his start, and he has promised that he will give of his best to show his supposters here that he is a real champion willing to fight anyone.

Smiling George Levchenko, however, is fully confident that he can outbox the Harbin lad. After his last workout yesterday with his two brothers and Gravitsky, he stated that he has a better chance than the public thinks. He said that he had the benefit of seeing Shelaeff in the ring a number of times and has studied his style. Moreover he has everything to gain and nothing to lose in his coming clash.

Other Bouts

In the meantime, another club supporting fight card has been arranged to supplement the title bout, with Hal Skelton, up-and-coming Marine slugger mixing with Boris Zats, most promising of the local youngsters. The latter has been sparring with Shelaeff of late and has improved tremendously since his last appearance against De Stefano.

Jackie Parks, who fought his best battle a few weeks ago against Seaman Watt of the U.S.S. Augusta will mix it against Onefrichuk, former main eventer. As both boys will scale at about 130 lb. interest in the outcome will be high as to how Park's skill can offset Onefrichuk's hitting power.

Back in the ring again, Little Thunderstorm, onetime idol of the Chinese fight fans will have his hands full meeting Cho Young of Seoul. The six rounds will be packed with action as both are willing mixers.

Heading the list of preliminaries will be the famous Charlie Case Collaco against Young Anatole; Ginger George Hahn will tackle Young George for four cantos and the curtain raiser will see four rounds of action with Private Melishkin and Parin of the French Army.

Gay Atmosphere Prevails at Rowing Club Regatta

Visiting Swimmers Shine in More Serious Events; Egg and Spoon Race Proves Hilarious Success

THE gay atmosphere at the Rowing Club last night spread from the amusing events in the evening's programme to permeate the crowd who voiced their approval of the contests in no uncertain manner, the water polo match which concluded the programme being loudly applauded as the spectators rose to leave the auditorium.

The Club have invited several visiting stars to take part in their events and last night saw three of the best swimmers from the Foreign Y.M.C.A. taking part in not only the serious swimming events, but also in the amusing contests. The ladies played no small part in the success of the evening and the large gallery of spectators were enthusiastic in cheering their efforts in not only their straight swimming contests, but also in the amusing egg and spoon race which brought the house down.

The evening opened with the two lengths handicap and here the better swimmers had difficulty in beating their easier handicapped men, Gavriloff and Oilveira coming up from behind to win. The ladies one length was won by Miss Patsy Forshaw from Miss Heather Roach and Miss Vera Dodd was third, the last named having a heavy handicap to overcome.

The water polo proved exciting and the two teams were evenly matched Whites defeating Blues by five goals to four.

The detailed results were:—

Women's Tennis League Matches Today

Undefeated Country Club To Meet Swiss Club

The Country Club will seek to add to unbroken chain of victories as they are to meet the Swiss Club on their own courts in one of today's fixtures in the Shanghai Women's Tennis League. The home team have won all their previous engagements.

A purely domestic encounter will take place on the C.S.F. lawn when the "A" team will play the "B." At the Russian Club at the Race Course the homesters will play Associacao Das Senhoras Portuguesas to complete the senior matches.

Play in the junior bracket also consists of three tussels. The Portuguese will entertain the Catholic Club and the outcome will probably decide the cellar championship of the present season. The Country Club will travel to the German Club while the Columbia Country Club, at present leading in the Second Division, will visit the Bramtoco courts. Both the last two matches will take place at the Race Course.

Kho Sin-Kie Outplayed By Don Budge

Chinese Champion Rallies Well in Second Set

Dublin, July 19.

Donald Budge, world tennis champion, defeated Kho Sin-kie, Chinese National champion, in two straight sets, 6-0, 7-5, today in an exhibition match.

The world champion combination of Budge and Gene Mako triumphed over George Lyttleton-Rogers of England and K. Chikos of Hungary, 7-5, 6-1 and 6-3, while Mako trimmed Lyttleton-Rogers, 6-2 and 6-0.

In the second set the Chinese revealed plenty of fine placements and his court-strategy was excellent. He forced Budge to spurt on several occasions. The American, however, unreeled ace services and sizzling drives after the tenth game to run out the victor.—United Press.

Test Captains In Grand Form

Bradman, Hammond Reach 2,000 Runs for Season on Same Day

London, July 19.

The reaching of 2,000 runs for the season by both Don Bradman and Wally Hammond, the rival Test captains, was the feature of the first-class cricket matches concluded today.

The Australian skipper beat Hammond to the mark by a few hours, as he reached the total in the forenoon and the Gloucester all-rounder only did so in the afternoon.

But both played equally brilliant innings, Bradman making 144 in a display of powerful off-driving and Hammond reaching 271 against Lancashire without giving a chance. The Australian was at the wicket for 179 minutes, and included one sixer and 17 fours in his total.

Hassett also made a century to help the Australians defeat Notts, hitting up 124 in a flawless knock, including one sixer and 15 fours.

The pair added 216 runs in 140 minutes for the second wicket.

High Scoring

High scoring featured the Championship matches, which resulted in outright wins for Surrey against Kent and Essex against Sussex, and only first innings victories for Leicester against Derby, Gloucester against Lancashire, Northants against Hampshire, and Warwick against Worcester.

With the aid of Hammond's double century, Gloucester amassed the highest total of the day, with 561 against Lancashire. The latter were not far behind with 426 for nine, declared, of which Washbrook was responsible for 219 not out.

Corbett Outfights Lee In California

Now Outstanding Boxer In Middleweight Class

Fresno, July 19.

Young Corbett III became the leading contender for Freddie Steele's middleweight title tonight when he decisively beat Glenn Lee, tough battler from Nebraska in ten rounds in the open-air arena here.

The former world welterweight champion walloped the husky youth in every one of the ten frames. Although he failed to stretch the plucky Nebraskan, he jabbed and hooked him almost at will. He left Lee gasping for breath time and again as he ripped him to the mid-section in clinches and close quarters.

By beating Lee, Corbett left no doubt that he is the outstanding 160-pounder in the present day standing. United Press.

Yanks Lose First Game to Tribe

Crucial Series Beginning Which Will Decide Lead In American League

New York, July 19.

Rallying in the fourth frame for three runs, the Cleveland Indians today beat the New York Yankees, 5-3, in the opening of their three-game crucial series which may determine the leadership of the American League.

With only half-a-game's difference between the Ruppert Rifles and the Sioux, the results of the next two games in the next two days will have an important bearing on the leadership. The world champion Bronx Bombers are in the lead at present, having dethroned the Tribe last week.

With both the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Giants winning their tussles, there was no change in the National League leadership, although the Cincinnati Reds walloped the Boston Bees in both ends of a double bill to climb into third place. They displaced the Chicago Cubs who bowed to the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-3.

The Indians broke through in the fourth frame for three runs, the Yanks failing to buckle down and hold their bitter foes to even terms after this sudden spurt.

Earl Averill rapped out a homer for the Sioux while George Selkirk and Bill Dickey banged out four-baggers for the Yankees.

Although the Detroit Tigers tied the Washington Senators in the ninth canto when they scored one run, the Solons came back with another run in the tenth inning to win 4-3.

George Case banged out three singles out of four trips to the plate.

Taking a lead in the second stanza when they scored two runs, the Redlegs went through to win, 3-1, against the Bees. Bill Myers lashed out a four-ply hit.

Sixty-Seven Countries Questioned

Asked to Approve Choice Of Finland for Olympiad

Brussels, July 19.

Count Baillet-Latour, Chairman of the International Olympic Federation, said today that he was cabling all 67 countries represented in the federation and asking them to vote whether the 1940 Olympic Games should be awarded to Finland.

He said that he would ask the foreign countries to answer by cable in order to arrive at a rapid verdict.

Finland, one of the outstanding competitors in the Games since 1912, has made bid after bid for the Games.

With Japan giving up the right to hold the event in 1940, Finland became the outstanding contender for honours because of the fact that it had already made preliminary arrangements for the holding of the Olympiad.

Boasting well-nigh perfect weather for the Games, Finland already begun mapping out plans for the staging of the Games in 1940 in the most beautiful and elaborate surroundings on record.—United Press.

Limited Programme

Brussels, July 19.

The Games will be limited to the ancient Greek programme of athletics only, all additions of contests, made in modern times, being suppressed.

Count Baillet-Latour has held conferences with other members of the I.O.C. by means of telegrams, and finally this decision was reached.

It is motivitated by the fact that Finland does not have enough time to make all the necessary preparations for a full Olympiad programme.—Havas.

Danenberg Case Continues

Mr. Haines Adjourns Case To Consider What Charges Should Be Preferred

This morning, Carlos Orlando Danenberg, Hongkong British subject who has been appearing before H. M. Police Court for several weeks now in connection with his alleged larcency of money and property to the value of about $1,000 from Dr. C. E. Coolidge (C. A. Soondora), will know whether or not formal charges will be preferred against him by Mr. C. H. Haines, Registrar.

The hearing of evidence for the prosecution closed yesterday morning, and Mr. Haines adjourned the case in order to go through the evidence in order to decide what charges, if any, would be preferred against him. The prosecution has been conducted by Mr. P. Watkin Williams, and the defence by Mr. R. L. Stuart, who is presenting Danenberg with his services free of charge.

The last witness to be called yesterday was Detective Sub-Inspector John Crighton, who told the Court that on June 24 of this year, as a result of information given him by Dr. Soondora, he went to the Chinese Y.M.C.A. in Boulevard de Montigny and there found the accused and Dr. Soondora in what appeared to be the library on the ground floor.

They were standing by a writing desk on which several documents were lying. Danenberg said to him:—"Inspector, this whole thing is a misunderstanding." Not desiring to cause a scene, Mr. Crighton asked them both to proceed with him to Police Headquarters, which they did; He then executed the warrant of arrest on Danenberg. That afternoon, Danenberg was questioned by Mr. Crighton in his office.

The Registrar said that he did not think witness could give evidence with regard to the questioning.

Question of Caution

Mr. Williams:—It was after the accused had been cautioned in the morning upon his arrest. Did you caution him again?

Witness:—No, I didn't. It was understood that the first caution was sufficient.

Quoting from the rules of evidence and procedure, Mr. Williams pointed out that it was laid down that "a person should not be questioned without the usual caution being given first." He submitted that meant that "if an accused person has been cautioned he need not say anything, that first caution covers it."

Mr. Haines pointed out, however, that in the case of a prisoner making a voluntary statement—as had happened in the morning when Danenberg was arrested—the prisoner "must not be cross-examined," save in cases of ambiguity. He would have to disallow evidence with regard to the questioning.

Sub-Inspector Crighton said that he received certain information from the accused "indirectly—it was a result of conversation between the accused and the complainant, and I overheard it." He also received information from Danenberg about some of the accused's own property."

In view of the Registrar's just having disallowed evidence concerning the questioning of Danenberg, some laughter was caused when witness remarked:—"I then questioned the complainant!"

He went to the Chinese Y.M.C.A., he continued, and recovered a small brown attaché case, the property of the defendant, which contained a quantity of paper, notebooks and so on. Witness also produced in Court yesterday Dr. Soondora's passport—allegedly taken by the accused with him to Hongkong—and said that he received it by post from the Hongkong Police authorities.

Mr. Williams:—On June 24, did the accused volunteer any statement?—He did.

Was it in reply to questions by you, or not?—It was not. The statement was to this effect:—"If you are going to charge me with the theft of a camel-hair overcoat, then I have no option." That was all. With regard to the conversation between the accused and the complainant, the defendant said:—"I left your camel-hair coat in Hongkong."

In adjourning the case to consider the evidence, Mr. Haines said that he would also look into the question as to whether or not he could hear counsel after preferring formal charges.

Modification of Curfew Announcement

So as to avoid inconvenience and trouble to the public in regard to the notification published yesterday regarding the curfew hours, the Commissioner of Police announces that information has been received from the Commander of the Japanese Naval Landing Party that north of the creek the application of the notification in regard to motor cars during curfew hours cannot at present be applied. Those persons, therefore, not in possession of curfew passes issued by the Japanese authorities, should not go out north of the creek in motor cars during curfew hours.

Japanese Artists Spared In Economy Drive

Tokyo, July 20.

"Art is long and time is fleeting." Japan's Education Ministry officials agreed today in deciding that Japan's annual art exhibition will be spared the war-time economy axe. Hence the second Cultural Art Exhibition will be held as arranged from October 16 to November 20. Gen. Baron Sadao Araki, Minister of Education, made the decision by maintaining that the exhibition should be held because of the "necessity of making a special manifestation of racial spirit in art at the present time."—Domei.

U.S. Forest Fires Get Out of Control

Volunteers Called to Aid Foresters in Fight

San Francisco, July 19.

With 2,000 men failing to control a spreading, roaring 1,200-acre fire sweeping the Redcap prairie area north-east of Eureka, the United States Forest Service summoned 150 volunteers today in the hope of halting the blaze from making further headway.

Raging brush and timber fires in eight national forests in northern California were taxing the Foresters to the utmost. Civilian Conservation Corps youths were pressed into immediate service as the Foresters brought all their latest equipment into play.

No fewer than 355 fires were reported in the timber and brush areas throughout the United States. Aerial observers believed the fires in northern California to be more numerous than ever before on record. Fires throughout the country's forests were increasing especially in northern California because of today's lightning and storms.

With all available C.C.C. men drafted to fight the California fires, the Forest Service chartered three airplanes. The planes will search for new outbreaks and also drop food tied to parachutes to men fighting fires.—United Press.

To enhance the interest of the visitors, humorous conversations were provided by two famous clowns in the city.

The exhibition lasted from July 16 to 18.—Reuter.

Japanese Resuming Permits

Applications for Chinese Employees of Foreigners Considered

Issuance of permits for Chinese employees of foreign and Japanese residents of Hongkew will be resumed today by Japanese consular police, Japanese newspapers said yesterday. The Japanese consular police had suspended the issuance of permits temporarily while carrying out epidemic prevention measures.

Employers who have made applications for passes for their Chinese employees were notified by the Japanese consular police authorities regarding the day and hour for appearing with the Chinese at the Garden Bridge to receive the passes.

Those persons who were requested to accompany Chinese employees to the Garden Bridge at 8 o'clock in the evening of June 18 were notified to appear, at the bridge at 8 o'clock this morning.

Employers previously asked to accompany the Chinese to the bridge on June 20 were advised to do so at 8 o'clock on the morning of July 22. Those asked to appear on June 21 were advised to go to the bridge at 8 o'clock in the morning of July 23.

Those who were to have appeared on June 22 were told to get their permits at 8 o'clock in the evening of July 25. Those who were to have received the passes on June 23 were notified to appear at the bridge on July 26. If the employers fail to appear at the designated times the consular police authorities will assume that they have withdrawn their applications, the papers said.

An investigation office will be opened at No. 314 Tiendong Road. Chinese not inoculated against cholera will be given the shots on the day of investigation.

London Stocks

Tuesday's Closing Quotations

London, July 19.

The undertone improved today in sympathy with higher Wall Street advices, but trading was very restricted owing to the continued lack of news regarding the German-Czechoslovakian conversations. British gilt-edged securities moved indecisively, while German and Austrian loans hardened. Oils, international issues and Kaffirs ruled firm. Elsewhere, fluctuations were narrow.—Reuter.

Paris Bourse

An Irregular opening was witnessed on the Bourse today despite favourable reports from Wall Street. Trading was unusually light especially in national issues, while internationals were slightly better supported.

During the session, owing to the practically complete lack of trading, the market slipped slightly, although Rentes and chemicals were supported. —Havas.

New York Stocks

Tuesday's Closing Quotations

New York, July 19.

Stock prices on Wall Street today advanced up to about 4 points, with many issues touching new highs since last October in one of the fastest buying movements witnessed in recent months. Gains were well maintained, despite heavy realizing and brief lulls. Apart from further recovery signs in many fields, the boom spirit appeared to be inspired by the market's amazing power of resistance during the past two weeks, while buying was reported from all parts of the country. On the other hand, the brisk upturn of steel mill operations and building construction and also retail spending, imparted a bullish tone. Steels were strong, as it is realized that consumption is still exceeding output and that inventories are under normal. Rails advanced on indications of broadening freight traffic, although they were kept within bounds by the deadlock over the rail wage conference. The turnover today amounted to 2,940,000 shares.

Dow-Jones Summary

By courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

Encouraged by yesterday's strong close traders from all parts of the country today placed buying orders which swamped out specialists, who, at the opening of the Stock Exchange, bunched their orders in blocks of one thousand to eight thousand. Additional encouraging factors included; the favourable technical position of the market; many bright spots in business; further acceleration of Pittsburgh operations; indications of carloadings touching a new high for the year; and, reports of several large plants increasing employment. However, unfavourable factors were: the foreign political situation is less reassuring and economic crises are feared both in Japan and Germany.

U.S. Commodities

Tuesday's Closing Quotations

New York, July 19.

Trading in the cotton market was early inactive, but prices were steadier largely in sympathy with the strength of the stock market, trade and foreign buying and a scarcity of contracts. Finally, general showers in the cotton belt caused fears of increased weevil activity and the market closed steady, with quotations ranging from 8 to 9 points up.

Prices in the rubber, market early reflected higher cables, the strength of Wall Street, mixed dealer trading and commission house buying. Later, trading quietened down with profit-taking retarding the advance, and, finally, prices eased on increased realizing. At the last call-over, quotations ranged from unchanged to 5 points down.

Wheat prices in Chicago opened quietly higher on the strength of Wall Street, the improvement in foreign markets, diminishing receipts from the south-west and the lightness of hedge-pressure. However, uncertainty over the attitude of farmers regarding the loan policy and favourable weather reports restricted professional activity. At the final bell, gains of ⅜ to a ½ of a cent were registered.

In the sugar market operator and foreign buying absorbed hedge-selling and liquidation, on the early steadiness of London advices and the absence of selling pressure. The trade were awaiting developments. At the close, quotations ranged from a ½ to 1½ points down.

Responding to the rally in Japan, the strength of the stock market and confirmation of a fair turnover for actuals yesterday, the silk market established new highs on shorts covering in nears and commission house and dealer demand for forwards, which easily absorbed profit-taking and selling accredited to Japanese interests and importers. Closing quotations were from 2 to 4 cents up.

U. K. Gold Shipments To U. S.

New York, July 19.

Considerable amounts of gold are expected to be shipped from Great Britain to the United States during the next few months, which partly reflect large seasonal exports to Britain from the United States, and also the transfer of funds from London in order to invest in American securities.

However, it is believed that Great Britain will not likely worry about these shipments, nor over the likelihood of the Equilization Fund having to ship considerable gold to the United States in support of sterling, because of the following reasons:—

The probability of gold holdings of the Equilization Fund being replenished through shipments from Belgium;

The acquisition of gold by individuals for hoarding, which, following the quietening down of dollar devaluation rumours, being gradually re-offered in London, thus adding to the holdings of the Equilization Fund; and,

Russia, having shipped gold regularly during the last few months to Britain for conversion into sterling and dollars, will probably continue these operations for some time to come.

Meanwhile, the United States will again be confronted with the problem of absorbing gold not only from Britain, but also from Japan and Latin America.

Since the Federal deficit is very large, it is not likely that the United States Treasury will retain any part of the gold, but will deposit gold certificates with the Federal Reserve Bank so as to permit the expansion of the already enormous excess reserves of Member Banks.

Thus, the prospective gold shipments from Great Britain will directly call attention to the surplus gold problem, which the United States authorities will have to face sooner or later.—Reuter.

Berlin Bourse

Berlin, July 19.

After yesterday's sharp decline of prices on the share market, the level then reached seemed at last to tempt genuine investors as many shares offered an unusually favourable return on invested capital. At all events share prices today were very firm while the turnover was considerable. In some cases prices advanced two to three points. Kloeckners even rose 6¼ to 118¾. Among the shares to recover most were minings, chemicals, electrics and motor works.

Fixed interest securities were offered rather more freely than otherwise, presumably owing to exchange operations of bonds against shares. Some industrial bonds were exceptionally weak but the more popular ones showed a sharp recovery.

Call money stood at 2⅝ to 2⅞ per cent.—Trans-Ocean.

Women Peg Claim In Diamond Field

Deposits on a Farm in S. Africa Said Richest Found in 18 Years

With all the excitement but none of the mad hurly-burly of the Klondike gold rush in the Yukon of forty-one years ago, 913 men and women recently staked claims to possible fortune on a new South African diamond field fifty-seven miles from Kimberley. The diamond deposits are on a farm called Thorney gulch and are reported to be the richest deposits found for eighteen years, states Mr. O. D. Gallagher in the "Daily Express."

Instead of a Klondike stampede there was a ballot which had been advertised by the South African Government. All those staking claims had to buy a 5s. Government permit. They collected for the ballot; then, as numbers and names were picked out of a drum the lucky diggers went forward one by one and staked their claims. No. 7 to be called was a twenty-five-year-old widow, Saanie Jordaan.

Widow's Choice

The six men before her had staked claims right in the centre of the "field." Mrs. Jordaan looked carefully at their pegs. She found that the men had—in their excitement—overlooked half a claim almost at the exact centre. It looked like one piece taken out of a complete jigsaw. With a smile she took this half. Other women accompanied by their husbands, helped to stake the claims.

Diamonds were first discovered at Thorney Gulch by the old Afrikaner named Oosthuizen who farmed it. He found tiny "stones" lying on the surface.

Working Like Mad

Government inspectors arrived. As Thorney Gulch is Government land, arrangements were made for an organized "rush" confined to people living in the province, the Cape of Good Hope.

The "rush" began at 9 in the morning and at night I spoke by telephone to the Government Mining Commissioner, Mr. Johnny Roux,

"Deficiency of information in Japanese English-language newspapers is completed very successfully by an English newspaper in Kobe The Japan Chronicle . . on its pages can often be found criticisms of the political and economic actions of the Japanese Government and various other information which gives the opportunity to observe and to analyse the Japanese economic situation. In addition to the usual material obtainable from all the Japanese English-language newspapers. The Japan Chronicle gives a very detailed and comprehensive review of the foreign trade of Japan. It regularly prints statistics pertaining to Japanese exports and the state of the home market."—Extracts from U.S.S.R. Chamber of Commerce Journal.
